HUB MAN IS SUICIDE AT SEA

New York, March 14.—William Slidell of Boston, World War Veteran, member of an old Louisiana family, whose grandfather figured in the Mason and Slidell incident with Great Britain during the Civil War, committed suicide Monday by leaping from the steamer Providence, the captain reported when the vessel arrived today from French and Italian ports.

Captain Marcantetti said Slidell was seen by several passengers to leap overboard. The ship was stopped and boats put out, but no trace of him could be found. Witnesses of the tragedy told the captain Slidell appeared to have been suffering from an hallucination.

Slidell, who had offices at No. 84 State street, Boston, was a graduate of Princeton, class of 1901, and held two war decorations.

Slidell left a number of letters among them several addressed to the captain and other ships' officers declaring he was being hounded by unnamed persons, and asking that an investigation be made if anything happened to him.

Captain Marcantetti said Slidell had been acting in a peculiar manner for several days and that he had had two physicians examine him, both of whom reported he was unbalanced and suffering from hallucinations.

The captain then detailed several

Sacco Takes to His Cot; Too Weak to Sit Up, He Says

Nicola Sacco today completed the fourth week of his fast. Refusing the breakfast tendered him in his cell at the Dedham jail, Sacco reiterated his intention to continue his hunger strike until death or freedom came to him.

He was visibly weaker, but the jail physician said he would be able to attend the hearing set for Friday on arguments by his counsel and the counsel for Bartolomeo Vanzetti for a new trial.

Sacco has taken to his cot, too weak to sit up, he said.

LAWYER'S SON JAILED AS BANDIT

Harold B. Allen, nineteen-year-old son of Attorney Charles C. Allen of No. 1 Hampshire court, Cambridge, was sentenced to five years in Concord reformatory today after pleading guilty in Middlesex County District Court to a charge of robbery while armed. Young Allen was defended by his father.

The charge to which Allen pleaded guilty was that of holding up Holland Loring of Cambridge on the night of February 15. Charges of

Bambino and Wife Declare the $50,000 Suit Is Blackmail and Will Fight

If Babe Ruth's wife has gone to the bat for her hard-swatting husband, the only hit she will make will be a foul ball.

This promise was made today over the long distance telephone by George Feinberg, attorney for Dolores Dixon, the "little orphan baby doll" who is suing Babe for $50,000 on the allegation that he is father of her child that is not yet born.

In an exclusive statement to the Boston American, Attorney Feinberg said that the Babe's well known predeliction for home runs was confined to the ballground, and that otherwise the home base was the last thing in his mind.

He told how Dolores, a little working girl, not yet eighteen years of age, was hypnotized into love for the big clouter.

He intimated that Mrs. Ruth, who has declared her intention of standing by her husband, will have cause to rue her freely expressed charges of blackmail.

"Babe Ruth, basking in his spot in the limelight, acquired a law contempt complex," said Feinberg. "It has been manifested in everything he has done for the past few seasons. He defied the law laid down by Commissioner Landis. He defied the traffic laws by speeding. And he defied the laws of decency and morality by ruining the life of a girl young enough to be his daughter—a beautiful, innocent little girl untaught in worldly affairs.

BURNED UP BROADWAY.

"Like his pal, Jack Dempsey, who has the same complex, Babe Ruth burned up Broadway in his big car. He loved to be surrounded by sycophants who flattered him and drank his liquor. Babe Ruth thought that the lobster places were built especially for him, the lights on Broadway burned for his delight and that the whole world was created entirely for his benefit.

"He has pulled many an error in

KILL BILL TO BREAK DOWN 48-HR. LAW

The campaign of textile interests and other powerful combinations to break down the forty-eight hour laws in this State expired today.

At the close of a prolonged executive session, the Legislative Committee on Labor and Industry announced that it had unanimously voted to reject the bill asking repeal of the law. Earlier in the session the Legislature rejected a bill to establish the 44-hour week in the textile trades.

No matter how hard they fight, it is now conceded that employers will be unable to overturn the committee's report in either House or Senate.

JAIL TERMS FOR 3 BOOTLEGGERS

Judge Stone in the Cambridge District Court today imposed jail sentences on three Cambridge bootleggers. Hyman Walden of No. 524 Windsor avenue was sentenced to six months in jail, while Alexander Rokiki and Charles Shuman, both doing business on Webster avenue, Cambridge, escaped with three months each. All appealed and were bailed.

BOY OF 8 EXPOSES PEABODY ELOPERS

Hartford, Ct., March 14.—A letter from an eight-year-old boy to his brother today led to the arrest of Mrs. Mary Marcheska, twenty-seven, and Julius Bezanski, thirty-four, both of Peabody, Mass. The brother gave the letter to the deserted father and he in turn notified the police. Mrs. Marcheska eloped on February 23, the Peabody police charge.

ARMY PLANES BOMB ICE JAM IN VAIN

Fort Jervis, N. Y., March 14 (By the Associated Press).—Army aviators today bombed the five-mile ice jam on the Delaware River which has threatened to result in the flooding of this town, but were unable to move the floe. Two large Martin bombers were used.

The airmen dropped seven 300-pound bombs, three of which hit land land, but injured no one. The others cracked great holes in the ice, but failed to move the jam. Another attempt may be made tomorrow.

PHONE CALL CLEW IN BRONX SLAYING

New York, March 14.—Hope of solving the mystery in the murder of Frederick Schneider, Bronx contractor, was revived today by a telephone call from a woman lured by an offer of $5,000 reward for information as to the slayer's identity.

Detectives were given the name of a young blonde woman who was declared to have been with Schneider a few minutes before the murder. The informant said this woman said to her on the telephone:

"I was with Fred Schneider a few minutes before the murder, and believe me, he got what was coming to him."

NEW MOVE TO SAVE PAPPAS

Condemned Man's Lawyer Tells the Governor Witness Was Threatened by Police

A final appeal to stay the execution of Paul Pappas for the murder of Alice Arsenault was made today to Governor Cox.

It was made by Attorney John W. Schenck, who represented Pappas at the trial, and Attorney James H. Kenney, who came into the case at the request of friends of the young Greek in the death house at Charlestown jail.

Attorney Schenck said he was acting on information that one of the most important witnesses in the case, Joseph Sifiakis, made his statement under duress, and that the police threatened to charge him with the murder if he didn't give this testimony.

Sifiakis, a lodger in Mrs. Arsenault's Columbus avenue lodging house, told of coming to the kitchen of the house on Christmas morning. He said he found Pappas pottering about, and saw Mrs. Arsenault lying on a couch, covered with bed clothing.

He asked Pappas what the matter was and he said that she had been drinking the night before and was feeling "under the weather." Pappas, Sifiakis stated, served breakfast to him in place of Mrs. Arsenault.

CHARGES POLICE DURESS.

"Pappas has informed me," Mr. Schenck said, "that he has received definite information to the effect that Sifiakis was threatened with the murder charge if he didn't give his evidence. The State in its case against Pappas alleged that Mrs. Arsenault was dead when Sifiakis saw her on the Christmas morning of 1919.

"Sifiakis testified that the head, shoulders and bust of Mrs. Arsenault were visible. He said he did not see any signs of blood. It was impossible, in my mind, for Mrs. Arsenault to have been dead when he saw her. He testified that the demeanor of Pappas was normal, that he showed no signs of nervousness or unusual symptoms.

"Medical Examiner Leary testified at the trial that he could find no trace of blood either on the couch, on any of her clothing or on the passageway or stairway leading to the cellar in which Mrs. Arsenault

4 Executed in County Donegal

London, March 14 (By the Associated Press).—Four men were executed today at Drumboe Castle, Stranorlar, County Donegal, says a Central News dispatch from Dublin this afternoon.

London, March 14.—A story of a plot by an Irish Republican organization to murder British Cabinet ministers and commit other crimes is printed today by the Daily Sketch.

The newspaper connects the alleged scheme with the activities of Irishmen recently arrested in Great Britain. It says that the persons marked for assassination included Premier Bonar Law, David Lloyd George and Sir Hamar Greenwood.

Many women, the Sketch asserts, obtained employment in households of intended victims to supply outside persons with details of the men's movements.

Chauffeur Tells of Trip to McLean Asylum With Dorothy Gordon

"Forget it!"

With this command William F. Jardine handed a ten-dollar tip to William A. Dowd, chauffeur, of No. 6 Trent street, Dorchester, Dowd testified today at the Dorothy Gordon guardianship hearing.

This, Dowd said, was after he had driven Jardine and Dorothy, March 22, 1921, to McLean Insane Asylum at Waverly, where Dorothy was left.

Dowd also said he once drove Jardine in his taxi to Westland avenue; that Jardine picked up a "young lady" on the way.

"What did you hear?" Dowd was asked by John L. Sheehan, counsel for John D. Gardiner, Dorothy's uncle.

"I heard them bargaining," replied Dowd. "I heard $20 mentioned."

George Jardine, nephew of William F. Jardine, testified that the

HOUSE PASSES FIREPROOF COAL BILL

The House this afternoon passed Governor Cox's "fireproof coal bill" by a vote of 77 to 46. The measure now goes to the Senate.

This gives the State the right to condemn, seize and destroy fireproof coal, provides a penalty of $1,000 fine and one year imprisonment for any dealer attempting to sell such coal after condemned or who offers to sell fireproof coal at all or who puts in impure substances. The Boston American's coal expose was praised by Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware in a stirring speech.

LAWYER TELLS HOW RUTH WON THE HEART OF 18-YEAR-OLD GIRL

DROVE HER IN HIS BIG BLUE CAR, AND DANCED WITH HER

his public batting record, but the biggest error of all was his affair with little Dolores. She was introduced to this ball player in May, 1922, by a mutual friend, who gave the girl to understand that it was a great honor to meet Babe Ruth, the famous Sultan of Swat. She'll never dreamed that this sultan would turn out a shiek.

"To her he was a creature of the noble. She had seen his picture in photo and cartoon a thousand times. She had heard his name mentioned as the names of great men are mentioned. She was thrilled at the chance to know him and to be with him, and to be seen with him.

"Ruth deliberately made a campaign to win the affections of this child. He drove her about in his big car. He introduced her to celebrities. And then, subtly, he began to tell her about his domestic difficulties, his wife didn't understand him or his moods; how he longed for some one who could.

THEY DINED AND DANCED.

"They drove about the town, they dined together, they danced.

"And now Dolores is waiting an event which requires more courage, more real bravery than Babe Ruth was ever capable of. Their courtship lasted from May to August.

"Babe Ruth it she the father of the child that is soon to be born to Dolores Dixon. That we will prove. We will prove that the all-important, all-consuming romance of her life was a trivial detail in the Broadway life of this ball player. She is faced with the great problem of bringing a nameless, fatherless child into the world. It is Babe Ruth's child, but we will not have to worry about it.

"And when she asks this man to arrange matters so that the child, handicapped as it is by its illegitimate birth, grows up not to be taken care of as far as material wants are concerned, Ruth calls it blackmail, and telegraphs back his attorneys, 'Not a dime.'

"That is not for Babe Ruth to decide. That is for the courts to decide."

KNEW HE WAS MARRIED.

Feinberg says that his client does not deny that she knew Ruth was a married man, but he says there were circumstances in the acquaintance which will prove of interest to the public when they are developed upon the witness stand.

Following the statement of the attorney, Miss Dixon made a statement in which she substantiated what he said.

"They tell me," the girl said, "that Mr. Ruth denies he ever met me. How can he say that when on at least two occasions when he was arrested for speeding I was with him in his car, the famous big limousine that all the motorcycle coppers knew."

Ruth Ignored Summons From Girl Last November

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New Orleans, La., March 14.—Shoulder to shoulder, Babe Ruth and his wife today are facing the world determined to fight the $50,000 paternity suit of nineteen-year-old Dolores Dixon of New York who both Babe and Mrs. Ruth swear they never knew.

The Ruth family defiance was hurled from their room in the Grunewald Hotel by a united family while three-year-old Dorothy Helen Ruth, clasped tight in her mother's arms, chuckled as her husky father poked her in the chin with a big fat finger and said:

"Well, fight blackmail to the finish, hey Dot?"

Over the wires from New York came the news that Miss Dolores Dixon, nineteen, who mysteriously vanished from her apartment at 683 Riverside Drive, New York, had, through her attorney, George Feinberg of New York, filed suit for $50,000 charging Babe Ruth was "the father of her child that was soon to be born."

"JUST BLACKMAIL."

"Just a bunch of blackmail," was the way Babe Ruth summarized it. "That's just what it is," echoed Mrs. Ruth.

The Ruth family had just arisen. Mrs. Ruth was clad in a kimona. Big Babe was arrayed in a rain coat hastily thrown over his shoulders as he answered the knock. Baby Ine was toddling about the room in her nightie.

"We're going to fight this Dixon girl. I can't even remember having ever met her," said Babe. "It's plain blackmail, and the way to fight blackmail is to force it out into the open."

"That's right," assented Mrs. Ruth. "It's a shame that anything like that should be tried—but I know its blackmail and I'm with my husband clear to the finish of this. I advised him myself to force this fight out into the open.

"Now, I haven't the least idea who this Dixon girl is. I never saw her and when my husband says he doesn't know her, I believe him.

"How long have I known of Julia Wiley, from the very first. My husband told me about it last November when he was served some kind of a summons in the case."

"You ignored the summons, didn't you?" Babe was asked.

"Of course, I did," said Babe. "And I told my wife about it at the time. Don't get the idea that this is the first time crooks and blackmailers have tried to shake me down for money. I've been hounded by confidence men and crooked, scheming women and crooked, scheming gamblers ever since I made my home-run record.

"I suppose that when the world found that I was among the highest salaried players in the history of baseball that made it open season on me for any crook or bunch of crooks that thought they had a chance of getting into my roll. But I'm bringing this fight right out into the open."

"Believe me, I'm staying with 'em to the finish in this," said Ruth.

"Now don't get the idea that I'm a persecuted angel. I haven't been any angel, but I haven't been the rotten slob that some people would like to make me out to be.

"I'm doing my best to play square and do the right thing in baseball and in my private life. That's why it hurts to have a charge like this come out at a time right after I've had my troubles with umpires—and Judge Landis, and when I've come clean and started to do the right thing."

Mrs. Ruth reached over and patted him on the shoulder.

"Don't you worry," she said. "When you're right, nobody can lick you."

Accused as Slayer

was subsequently buried in the ashes.

He testified that the wound in the throat—the one which is believed to have caused the death of the woman, although there were six more slashes—was such as to have ordinarily caused a considerable flow of blood."

Attorneys Schenck and Kenney were accompanied to the governor's chamber by Governor's Councillor George E. Curran, who has interested himself in the case.

Attorney Schenck made no reference to Pappas' charge that Arthur Pelletier is the man who killed Mrs. Arsenault.

Pelletier testified at the trial of Pappas that he had been on intimate terms with Mrs. Arsenault.

Pappas charged that Pelletier killed Mrs. Arsenault after she had refused to make an improper resort of the rooming house and give him half the profits.

The Boston American today located Pelletier and told him of the statement made by the man who is condemned to die in the electric chair at Charlestown prison at 12.30 p. m., Tuesday, March 18.

"It is the last desperate effort to gain time on the part of a man who is willing to grab at any straw to save himself," said Pelletier. "It is preposterous to think there is even the slightest basis for his charge.

"He says that I fled after the trial. I have been living at the same address for the past five years. I am living now at the place I lived when the trial took place. My address is and has been in the hands of the police. I am and have been ready to come forward and make any statement concerning what I know of the case.

"Paul Pappas killed Alice Arsenault. There is not the vestige of a doubt about that in my mind. He not only killed her, but he threatened to kill her. She told me that. She told me also that he had threatened to kill me. A week after Pappas killed Alice and buried her body in the safe in the cellar of the Columbus avenue house, he was having a party at which there was much singing, piano playing and drinking.

"I cannot imagine how a man who is about to die can bring himself to make such an unwarranted accusation against a man he knows to be entirely innocent."

REJECTS ST. MIHIEL MEMORIAL PLAN

The Legislative Committee on Military Affairs today refused to approve plans for erection of a $250,000 memorial at St. Mihiel, France, in honor of the Bay State soldiers who gave up their lives in the sister republic. The committee decided to report in favor of the appointment of a new commission for further study of the project.

Lynn Drunk Selects Bridgewater Jail Because of Baths

John Howard is a leather worker of Lynn who is particular as to his surroundings. Convicted of drunkenness, John today begged Judge Reeve to send him to the State Farm at Bridgewater, because "the baths are wonderful." He added the food was also good and the beds clean.

Howard, who suffers from a sore leg, declared he did not care to go to Salem jail, as he did not approve of the baths. Most men convicted of drunkenness fight shy of the State Farm, because of the parole system attached to an indeterminate sentence. John got his wish.

day before Dorothy was last taken to McLean she told him that she was very unhappy, that she worried constantly over her money, that she wanted to get away from the Jardines and was mad because she had "no say" as to her estate; also that she was afraid of Mrs. Nason.

LATE. SAYS WITNESS.

Mrs. Frances B. Silver of No. 27 St. Luke's road, Allston, testified that she formerly lived in a top floor suite at No. 1254 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, and that Mrs. Sue Jordan had the suite across the hall.

She said that Jardine came to Mrs. Jordan's apartment frequently. Hot Summer evenings she had seen Mrs. Jordan let Jardine out of her apartment as late as 2 a. m.

Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Warren, member of the First Church Representatives and first witness at the hearing before Judge Leggat in Middlesex Probate Court today, testified that he tried Alice Novembre, and Dorothy at McLean Asylum as a minister of the gospel but was unable to reach her. He said Jardine referred his request to Attorney Robert Nason, who refused it.

Mrs. Silver said she is living across the top floor hall from Mrs. Jordan at No. 1254 Commonwealth avenue, then was asked if she knew Jardine.

"Yes, I saw him coming out of No. 1254 Commonwealth avenue when I lived there."

She said she saw Jardine coming out of Mrs. Jordan's apartment "quite frequently."

Q.—When did he come? A.—I saw him coming in the afternoon and going out at night. During the hot Summer months I have seen him go out at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Q.—Who opened the door for him? A.—Mrs. Jordan.

Mrs. Silver moved to the third floor and Mrs. Jordan down to the fourth. She was asked how often she saw Jardine there.

"Why," she replied, "he practically lived there, at least I thought he lived there."

On Attorney Nason's objection this was excluded.

But on cross-examination, Mrs. Silver said, referring to Jardine:

"I thought he was her (Mrs. Jordan's) husband. I thought he belonged in her apartment like my husband belonged in mine."

Albert Siedler, janitor at No. 1309 Commonwealth avenue, where Sue Jordan now has an apartment, testified to seeing Jardine come in there. One night, he said, he found Jardine opening the house door with a key. The janitor asked:

ACCOSTED BY JANITOR.

"What in hell are you doing here?"

Jardine replied, the janitor testified, "I am going into suite 1."

This suite, Siedler added, was Mrs. Jordan's apartment. The janitor said persons in Mrs. Jordan's apartment were noisy, so that he once reported it to the agent.

Siedler was there the day process servers came looking for Mrs. Jordan. Mrs. Jordan and a young man tried to get out the back way, Siedler added, but someone must have been watching, because they came back.

When Attorney Sheehan put Chauffeur Dowd on he tried to question him as to any scene when Dorothy arrived at McLean Asylum, but these questions were excluded. Then Dowd went on:

"I went back to No. 1654 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, and left Mr. Jardine, went to lunch, returned and took Mr. Jardine with two suit cases to the asylum. Then I took him to Boston, near the South Station."

TELLS OF AUTO TRIPS.

Q.—Did he give you any money? A.—Ten dollars.

Q.—Was that payment for cab hire? A.—No, that was charged.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He gave me the ten dollars and said: "Forget it," or words to that effect.

Q.—Have you driven him since? A.—Yes.

Dowd said he had picked Jardine up several times at the Hotel Brewster and driven him to Commonwealth avenue just beyond Harvard avenue.

Q.—Ever take them anywhere else? A.—To Westland avenue, about 8:30 one night.

Q.—Anyone with him? A.—Yes, he picked up a young lady midway.

Then Dowd testified to hearing "them bargaining," also "twenty dollars mentioned."

Ireland's Dark Night Service, Not Profits The Coal You Bought The Superheated Girl

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

THE WHOLE world is upside down. A dictator of one kind rules in Italy. Another rules Turkey, and a totally different kind rules in Russia.

The strangest, most tragic situation lies in Ireland.

In the dead of night a British battleship brings 300 Irish Republicans from England, a band of men and women rounded up and arrested, all within twenty-four hours.

From the battleship the prisoners are put on two British destroyers and by them delivered to the Irish Free State, which will do as it chooses with them, probably try and execute several.

AFTER SEVEN hundred years of Irish fighting against England you see Irishmen setting fire to the homes of such men as Tim Healy and Plunkett, and England hunting and capturing three hundred rebellious Irishmen, sending them not to English prisons, but to the Irish Free State and to Irish prisons.

Anything may happen after that.

NO MORE half holidays for postoffice employes. Deliveries to be cut in half. Eighteen hundred men to be dropped.

That's the news sent from headquarters to the postoffice in New York city, biggest in the country. These economies are ordered, although New York city's postoffice makes a profit of twenty-four million dollars a year.

The idea is to make up for losses elsewhere.

BUT THE whole economy idea is unsound. The postoffice belongs to the people. They pay the bills. They want good service and are willing to pay for it. They don't want a postmaster bragging of his "financial showing."

Whether it be distant rural delivery, where it may cost twenty-five cents to deliver a two-cent letter, or New York city's postoffice, earning six per cent. yearly on four hundred millions, the only question should be, "What is the best possible service that can be given?"

If the government thinks people put postoffice profit ahead of postoffice service, the government is mistaken.

CHARLES MORAN, mining engineer, swears that one coal company, "supervised" by the government, dug up and shipped to consumers more than three million tons of old "culm bank" deposit—coal dust, slate, ashes and dirt—that had been thrown aside as useless.

And that's the stuff that the public has been ordered to buy as "substitutes," in the words of the government supervisors and "protectors of the public," in the coal crisis.

For that refuse "coal" the public paid from $12 to $20 a ton, and begged on its knees to get it.

Nice government "supervision" —for the mine owners.

Mrs. Bailey Home With 'Autographed Leg'

The latest thing in autograph albums is a plaster cast of young Mrs. H. E. Bailey's left leg, Mrs. Bailey of Brookline.

Remember, in "The Mikado," the exceptional left shoulder blade of the fascinating Katisha? "People came miles to see it," as the song said.

Well, numerous friends on shipboard gathered round and wrote their names on Mrs. Bailey's left leg. Every signature was a mark of sympathy, as well as a highly interesting souvenir.

Young Mrs. Bailey, incidentally, is the former Ethel Susanna Scannell, daughter of Mrs. Burt R. Scannell of No. 1378 Beacon street, Brookline. As Miss Scannell she eloped with H. E. Bailey of Newton eight years ago to New York where they were married at the Little Church Around the Corner. Then they came home and were duly forgiven and congratulated.

But about Mrs. Bailey's left limb. She sailed abroad a few weeks ago. She promised friends she would bring home unique souvenirs.

She broke the souvenir records: also her left leg. This happened when she fell out of her steamer berth in a nightmare on her return trip on the Baltic.

Surgeon W. Graeme Robertson of the Baltic set the leg in a plaster cast. Three days later Mrs. Bailey was carried on deck.

A girl friend said: "This will serve to remind you of me when I am gone," and signed her name on the smooth plaster cast.

The idea took. Many signatures, both masculine and feminine, followed. When the Baltic docked at MRS. H. E. BAILEY.

New York and Mrs. Bailey was borne ashore her left leg looked like a hotel register on a rush day.

"It's been great fun," says Mrs. Bailey; "when the doctors take the cast off I am going to preserve it as a souvenir. I'll wager it is the only one in the world."

FINES "LOVING LANDLORD" AS HUGGER

"A landlord who loves his tenants: that is, some of them."

That is what the police of East Boston call Carmine Giovino, 52, of No. 149 Chelsea street, East Boston. But his method of loving was not successful.

Today, in East Boston court, Giovino was fined $50 for assault and battery on Mrs. Frances Milner of No. 58 Trenton street. A similar charge, involving Mrs. Agnes Atkinson of No. 106 Putnam street, was dismissed. Both women occupy houses owned by Giovino.

According to the testimony, Giovino entered the Milner home when Mrs. Milner and her young daughter were alone. Mrs. Milner asked him his purpose in "coming so early for the rent." He parried the question, she declared, by saying to the child: "Little girl, you have a very pretty mother, haven't you."

Then, according to the mother, the landlord put his arms around her. Prior to that, she declared, he told her he would come some time when her husband and daughter were not at home.

Mrs. Atkinson, who listened to the testimony in the first case, withdrew her complaint as she was asked to take the stand. Special Officer James J. Driscoll, who prosecuted the case, told the court that Giovino had, pinning Mrs. Atkinson's cheek, saying to her: "You are a very pretty girl."

He paid the fine in the Milner case and made no denials of the charges.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MUST BE LAWYER

Anybody who wants to run for attorney-general in the future must be a lawyer. Governor Cox today signed the bill which provides the attorney-general must be a member of the bar.

Telegraph Briefs

New York—The Bar Association of New York city is on record in favor of President Harding's proposal that the United States participate in the permanent Court of International Justice.

Ottawa—Voting 54 to 12, the Senate rejected a bill which would have given a province the right to prohibit the manufacture of liquor within its own borders.

New York—An appeal to large corporations to employ rehabilitated war veterans will be made by Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines, new director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, he announced at a dinner here.

New York—A. Russell Kaster, a clerk in the shoe and leather branch of the Chase National Bank, shot and killed himself in the bank.

Washington—A contract for reconditioning the Shipping Board steamer America, one of the quartette interned as the mainstay of the trans-Atlantic trade, has been awarded to the Brooklyn Navy Yard under "navy estimates."

LOSSES OF 1920 BLOCK SUGAR DIVIDENDS

Losses through repudiation of contracts by customers in 1920 are responsible for failure of the American Sugar Refining Company to pay dividends on its common stock in 1922, although there was an operating profit of $10,033,832.55, according to the annual report of Earl D. Babst, the president, to 27,285 stockholders. This was made public today.

The earnings, over and above fixed charges, preferred dividends and depreciation, are being devoted to meeting the company's losses in 1920, President Babst states. The earnings averaged about one-quarter of a cent a pound for the year.

YEAR TO OFFSET LOSSES.

The total business approximated $192,000,000. The operating deficit for 1921 was estimated at $2,177,276.

The report says it will require another year "to clear from the annual reports" the losses and uncertainties brought about by contract repudiation, notwithstanding court decisions which have broken up "organized efforts to intimidate the company and to sustain these repudiations."

The American Sugar Refining Company continued today to maintain its previous price of $9.30 a hundred pounds. The Revere Sugar Refinery held to $9.15 a hundred while Arbuckle Brothers of New York advanced its quotation twenty-five cents to $9, the price in effect on Monday, when a slash was made.

The present shortage was abolished today by dealers as "psychological." In fact, all indications are that the Cuban crop this season will be far above normal.

PREDICT DROP IN PRICE.

The opinion of Boston dealers that the price will drop was partly borne out by the fact that Cuban raw sugar was selling in New York today at 5⅝ cents a pound, ⅛ cent less than yesterday.

SENTENCE COUPLE TAKEN IN RAID

Grover C. Nickerson, lumber salesman, and Ella Seander of Maplewood, who were arrested in a Queens Ferry street apartment, appeared in Roxbury court today and were sentenced.

The woman was given a suspended sentence to Sherborn and placed on probation for one year. Nickerson, whose wife caused the arrest of the couple, was given four months in the House of Correction. The case was continued to Friday in order that he may enter an appeal.

Miss Seander, who figured during the trial of the pair some time ago, created a scene in the courthouse corridor by sobbing hysterically. At the time she and Nickerson were arrested a baby was found in the apartment. Mrs. Nickerson was in court today.

Hurley Under Car

MISS SARAH BELLIN

DUDLEY STREET PASSENGER IS NEAR DEATH

Miss Sarah Bellin, twenty years old, is at City Hospital, a victim of Dudley Street Elevated station.

In the swirl of an evening rush hour, when the station platforms and narrow stairways were jammed with passengers, the girl was swept off her feet on the slippery stairway of the east loop and was knocked to the ground level. She rolled in front of a Norfolk street car, which was about to start.

Spectators shouted to the motorman. Men pulled Miss Bellin from the tracks just in time. The girl was so hysterical that she was sent to the hospital.

REPRIEVES FOR BAKER BOYS

Atlanta, March 14 (By International News Service).—Answering the plea of scores of religious organizations, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick today granted a reprieve until April 13 to nineteen-year-old George Baker and his fifteen-year-old brother, Ralph Baker, condemned to be hanged next Friday for the murder of a deputy sheriff.

Shortly after the reprieve was announced, the Georgia State Prison Commission recommended that the death sentence against Ralph Baker be commuted to life imprisonment.

N. Y. SENATE PASSES TWO "WALL ST." BILLS

Albany, N. Y., March 14.—The State Senate early today passed two "Blue Sky" laws, one to provide for incorporation of stock exchanges and the other for regulation of brokerage houses under the State Banking Department. The bills now go to the Assembly.

BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE ON TRAWLER

Judson Goodwin, watchman on the steam trawler Rowena, was burned to death today in the cabin of the trawler at Atlantic Works wharf, Border street, East Boston.

Police believe the watchman fell asleep on a couch while smoking a cigarette. The fire spread to the hold of the vessel, causing damage estimated at $1,000.

Workmen on the dock heard a scream from the trawler. They rushed aboard and saw Goodwin running up the stairway from the cabin. His clothing was ablaze. They telephoned for the fire department.

GETS 3 YEARS FOR ATTACK ON WOMAN

Harvey Thompson, colored, convicted of assaulting and attempting to rob Margie Kelleher in Cambridge the night of February 27, in East Cambridge Superior Court today was sentenced to from two and a half to three and a half years in State Prison. A charge of assault on Charles Melcher was placed on file by Judge Sisk. Thompson attacked the woman while she was walking along a Cambridge street, beat her severely and attempted to steal her pocketbook.

JAPAN REFUSES TO YIELD PORT ARTHUR

Tokio, March 14 (By the Associated Press).— Japan today rejected China's proposal to abrogate the treaty of 1915, which contained the noted "twenty-one demands" and extended for fifty years the Japanese leases on Kwangtung Peninsula, including Dalny and Port Arthur.

FREES LOWELL MEN ACCUSED OF ARSON

Judge Sisk, in Superior Court at East Cambridge, today, ordered a verdict of "not guilty" against Philip, Max and Jacob Degdonoff, charged with arson in connection with the fire in their store at Nos. 370-2 Bridge street, Lowell. The fire occurred on the night of November 12, 1922.

'KING' HELD IN BAIL OF $20,000

Edward Murphy, Alias Gray, Is Accused of Allston and South End Robberies

Edward Murphy, alias William E. Gray, was held in default of $20,000 bail by Judge Thomas H. Connolly in Brighton Court today. He was arraigned on charges of robbery and having a revolver and burglars' tools in his possession.

In Roxbury Court warrants were issued today charging Murphy with robbery in several counts, the complainant being Special Officer Benjamin A. Wall of Dudley Street Station. Wall located the rooms of Murphy and his two companions in the South End last night, and was told the other two returned there yesterday, following Murphy's arrest, hurriedly packed their effects and disappeared. The police believe they have left town.

Murphy was cool when arraigned in Brighton. He waived the reading of the warrants and pleaded not guilty.

He was charged with robbing Harry Blake's drug store on Commonwealth avenue, Allston, and Blake's clerks, George W. Andrews and Lester Omarth.

Robberies in which Murphy is alleged by the Dudley street police to have participated, were at the stores of William J. Lyons, on Hunnibold avenue, and Daniel McKeenan on Dudley street. He is also charged with tying up Harry Wassenboche and a negro janitor and robbing them in an office in the building of an apartment house owned by Wassenboche on Dudley street. All the robberies were committed in February.

LLOYD GEORGE SEES END OF LAW REGIME

London, Mar. 14 (By International News Service).—That Premier David Lloyd George believes the Tory government of Premier A. Bonar Law faces an early collapse was indicated by a speech he made here today urging immediate reunion of the two factions of the Liberal party.

"The Bonar Law government is rapidly losing prestige," declared Lloyd George. "Its supporters are discouraged."

EXPLODING STILLS WRECK N. Y. HOUSE

New York, March 14.—Two stills exploding like a pair of time bombs lifted the roof of a two-story building, threw hundreds of persons out of bed and gave police and fire forces of the Bath Beach section, Brooklyn, a hard time today. The detonation of the first, a 50-gallon affair, was followed quickly by a larger roar as its companion, of 100-gallon capacity, tore loose.

CABLE BRIEFS

Paris (By A. P.)—The two-year around-the-world flight by five French aviators, which was to have started today, will not be undertaken until April 1 because of passport difficulties.

Peking (By A. P.)—Alfred Sze, acting Foreign Minister for several months, has left for Washington to resume his post as Minister to the United States.

Birmingham, Eng.—Sir Eric Geddes, president of the Federation of British Industries, speaking here said British trade in 1923 improved 20 per cent. as compared with 1921, but was about 20 per cent. less than in 1913.

'Bumps' Cost $10

SUSIE STANLEY

COP'S "BUMPS" GET FAIR SUSIE INTO TROUBLE

Sergeant Maurice Sullivan and Patrolman Kennedy, in plain clothes, were attracted by a number of brilliant signs at No. 221 Hanover street which announced to the world that Susie Stanley, a gypsy, could tell you all about your future by examining the bumps on your head.

"Better go in and see what she's got," said Sullivan. Officer Kennedy entered.

"Oh, you lovely man," exclaimed Susie. "You have seven bumps."

"What of it?" asked Kennedy.

"You are a very rich man. Doctors cannot cure you. You lost $200 in a crap game last night. I have seventeen angels and forty-five saints and will burn candles for you starting at 7 o'clock tonight. Our prices are $5, $10, $15, $20 and $25."

DITTO TO SERGEANT.

Patrolman Kennedy went out and reported to Sergeant Sullivan. The sergeant went in. "Oh, you lovely man," said Susie, "you have seven bumps——"

"Never mind the seven bumps," interrupted the sergeant. "It's just about seven jumps from here to the station, Susie. Slip on your shawl."

Susie was before Judge Duff in municipal court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Her attorney pleaded that Susie was not a fortune teller, but a phrenologist, and that the science of bumps had been handed down to her from her mother.

"Horse trading and fortune telling are more in her line, I should say," remarked Judge Duff. "Just as poker playing is distinctly an American art. Inasmuch as Susie has no diploma from some school that teaches phrenology, I would suggest she go back to fortune telling."

SO SHE'S FINED $10.

Judge Duff turned to Sergeant Sullivan. "For a young man like you, you should be glad to have seven bumps," he said.

"I don't care if I have seventeen bumps," said the sergeant. "I want the gypsies to keep out of my district."

"I'm afraid I will have to fine you $10, Susie," said Judge Duff.

"That's up to you," said Susie. "You're the law."

PROPOSES NEUTRAL ZONE

Would Internationalize Territory Between France and Germany, Says Lord Cecil

Dusseldorf, March 14 (By International News Service).—German government funds in Dusseldorf were seized by the French today.

By International News Service.

London, March 14.—Lord Robert Cecil announced this afternoon that the League of Nations is proposing a settlement of the Ruhr issue through the establishing of an internationalized neutral zone between the French and German borders.

Lord Robert Cecil said that the proposed neutral zone would be twenty miles wide. It is suggested furthermore to internationalize the railways.

France's case, declared Lord Robert has been underrated for France seeks security as well as reparations. The neutral zone, it is claimed, would give France the security she desires.

Lord Robert Cecil will sail for the United States next week to advocate the plan.

A proposal just brought from Berlin by a member of the British House of Commons that Germany will submit a new reparations offer if Great Britain will intervene in the Ruhr has been rejected by Premier A. Bonar Law, who told the parliamentarian that Great Britain was not prepared to step in at present. The Premier believes France would resent interference, for already warning has come from Paris that the French want no intervention.

It is reported a "die-hard pro-French group" is exercising tremendous power in the Cabinet and consistently opposing British intervention.

In diplomatic circles it is said that strong pressure is being brought to bear upon Chancellor Cuno at Berlin to urge him to accept the Franco-Belgian decision at Brussels as a "desire for peace" on the part of the French and Belgians and to announce that Germany is ready to accept any proposals from any neutral for a conference of political and economic experts to fix a definite amount of reparations and take guarantees to secure payment.

Award of Vilna to Poland Confirmed

Paris, March 14 (By International News Service).—Despite the protests of Lithuania, the Allied Council of Ambassadors today confirmed the decision of the Riga treaty awarding Vilna (former capital of Lithuania) to Poland.

The decision will be communicated to Warsaw.

Vilna was occupied by Polish troops at the conclusion of the Russo-Polish war. Poland at first disclaimed the seizure, saying it was carried out by irregulars, but later supported it. Lithuania protested but the allies upheld Poland.

INGROWN TOE NAIL

TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

JAMAICA PLAIN GIRL BUYS SIX HANDY BAGS

Handy Bags are just the thing. If anyone has any doubt about it, just ask pretty "Peggy" Donovan of Jamaica Plain. She vouches for them.

Peggy came all the way down to the Handy Bag department to tell just how much she appreciates the advantages of her Handy Bag. She said:

"They're the most convenient bags I ever saw. They're so good I bought a half-dozen for the rest of the family and some friends of mine."

So if anyone buys six, they must be good. Handy Bags can be obtained by presenting coupons from three successive issues of the paper and thirty-three cents, either at this office or at any of the following news dealers:

Young B——, 13 years old, enters the hospital in January, 1912. He has a very serious heart complaint characterized by a peculiarity in the respiration; he has such difficulty in breathing that he can only take very slow and short steps. The doctor who attends him, one of our best practitioners, predicts a rapid and fatal issue. The invalid leaves the hospital in February, no better. A friend of his family brings him to me and when I see him I regard him as a hopeless case, but nevertheless I make him pass through the preliminary experiments which are marvelously successful. After having made him a suggestion and advised him to do the same thing for himself, I tell him to come back in two days. When he does so I notice to my astonishment a remarkable improvement in his respiration and his walking.

I renew the suggestion and two days afterwards, when he returns the improvement has continued, and so it is at every visit. So rapid is the progress that he makes that, three weeks after the first visit, my little patient is able to go on foot with his mother to the plateau of Villers. He can breathe with ease and almost normally, walk without getting out of breath, and can mount the stairs, which was impossible for him before.

As the improvement is steadily maintained, little B—— asks me if he can go and stay with his grandmother at Carignan. As he seems well I advise him to do so, and he goes off, but sends me news of himself from time to time. His health is becoming better and better, he has a good appetite, digests and assimilates his food well, and the feeling of oppression has entirely disappeared. Not only can he walk like everybody else, but he even runs and chases butterflies.

He returns in October, and I can hardly recognize him, for the bent and puny little fellow who had left me in May has become a tall upright boy, whose face beams with health. He has grown 12 centimetres and gained 19 pounds in weight. Since then he has lived a perfectly normal life; he runs up and down stairs, rides a bicycle, and plays football with his comrades.

LENINE'S SPEECH BADLY AFFECTED

Moscow, March 14 (By International News Service)—A slight stagnation of blood circulation is over-complicating the illness of Nichola Lenine, who recently suffered a stroke of paralysis on the right side. His speech was badly affected and he was unable to use his right arm or leg. Later his speech improved somewhat.

Special editions of the Soviet official newspaper Pravda are issued to carry the official announcements of the doctors. Three German specialists were due from Berlin today, bringing the staff of doctors up to six.

OPPOSE CATHOLIC FOR LYNN POST

Two members of the Lynn School Board, Mrs. Harriet Russell Hart, and Attorney James Russell Hooper, have received anonymous letters protesting the appointment of a Roman Catholic school superintendent, it became known today. The notes:

"Are you aware that the position of superintendent of schools is about to be given to a Roman Catholic? Wake up. Do not let the ground grow under your feet. You have ample time to stop it."

Both were written on paper similar to that used in Lynn City Hall.

Ernest W. Stephen, acting superintendent since Charles S. Jackson resigned, has been considered for the office by the school board. There have been many applications for the position, which pays $5,000 a year.

421 DIVORCE CASES IN SUPERIOR COURT

Divorce session of Suffolk Superior Court will open Monday with list of 257 uncontested and 164 contested cases. Last year this court granted 891 divorce decrees. There is expectation that the 1922 number will be exceeded this year.

MELODRAMA AT WILBUR FULL OF VILLAINY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

CRIME continues at the Wilbur —and it seems to grow more horrible as the weeks roll along. There was nothing of the mystery play about "It Is the Law," as you viewed it last evening. Unlike "The Bat," which gave you a set of first class thrills with a guessing contest flavor, this newest of the season's output in hard melodrama reached the upper level of cold blooded stage crime—and you didn't have to guess who was doing the dirty work.

CHILLS IN PLENTY.

You collected speculative thrills from "The Bat," but with "It Is the Law," you got nothing but chills—chills that tossed your best girl into your arms every time the lights were dimmed. It was a hard night for the actors and a terrifying one for the audience.

It was complicated crime, too, with harrowing deeds that involved mixed identities, cunning villainy, a little dope and a lot of shooting. And the poor, hard pressed hero spent eight years in prison during the action of the play. Fortunately the curtain was lowered to take on the necessary lapse of time.

MELLOW MELODRAMA.

"It Is the Law" is an Elmer E. Rice melodrama from a Hayden Talbot story—a very mellow melodrama. Nothing could be more diabolical than the plans of the rejected suitor who arranged his own death and the implication of his rival. With the adroit skill of a well trained dramatist Mr. Rice introduced a "double" into the first shooting. He died ingloriously and, according to plans, the wrong man was sent up for life.

The play was well acted, which, in a measure, took away some of the curse of so much premeditated crime.

Ralph Kellard, who was torn from his bride on the wedding day and sent up river, played a difficult role with rare credit to his art, and Dorothy Shoemaker, making her first appearance as a distranged heroine, guided herself safely and efficiently through a quartet of emotional scenes. She made a favorable impression.

Arthur Hohl was about as obnoxious a villain as any playwright has ever dragged from a typewriter — a good deal of a Jekyl and Hyde, but mostly Hyde. In the good old days, when melodrama did its worst to the poor wrecking rip, the villain was always hissed at the proper period of action. We are still wondering why somebody didn't throw chairs at Mr. Hohl last evening.

A marked absence of comedy left "It Is the Law" with nothing but crime and expansive dialogue for its chief support. There was a ray of sunshine, however, in the role played effectively by A. H. Van Buren, who proved himself a gifted actor in a not very luxurious part. Rose Burdick lieutenized herself through the play and managed to hold her own with what the author supplied.

LOTS OF CRIME.

"It Is the Law" is a gripping play—a time worn phrase that cannot be escaped. The author intended his play to be a thriller, but somehow he got chills instead of thrills into his structure. There is more crime than virtue at the Wilbur this week.

DANA EXPLAINS BACK BAY 'L' BLOCKADE

General Manager Dana of the Elevated declared today that the Kenmore station trolley car blockade was cleared as quickly as possible and that everything possible was done to take care of the public. He said:

"The middle car of a three-car train went across both tracks. There is an iron fence between the tracks. When the car went into the fence the iron fence rails became tangled in the car trucks. The car could not be pulled back on the track until the fence rails had been cut off with an acetylene torch. After that the car had to be pulled back on the tracks. We had two emergency crews working."

He was told of complaints that persons were allowed to enter downtown subway stations during the blockade without being notified that the Back Bay, Brookline, Allston and Brighton lines were tied up. He said that megaphone men were sent into the subway stations to call out announcement of the blockade, that notices were put up on the station bulletin boards and that every effort was made to warn the public.

7 FIREMEN HURT AT PITTSBURGH BLAZE

Pittsburgh, March 14.—Seven firemen were injured, many guests of the Hotel Kavanaugh driven out, two business buildings destroyed and a department store damaged by fire today. The loss is estimated at $250,000. The blaze started in the factory shoe store in Market street. The Strahm meat market, one of the largest in the city, was next to go. Five of the seven injured firemen were buried beneath a burning balcony.

Flint, Mich., March 14.—Two firemen were injured, one seriously during a $200,000 fire which destroyed the Genesee county court house today. The blaze necessitated transfer of frightened prisoners from the adjacent county jail to the city prison.

OOZE RAIDERS BARRED BY LYNN WIFE

Once burned, twice shy, is an old and excellent maxim.

By the same token, a person who has twice been stung takes no chances whatever.

That explains the refusal of Mrs. Mary Tapper of No. 22 Henry avenue, Lynn, to permit two policemen to enter her home today during the excitement caused by a slight fire.

"No," said Mrs. Tapper firmly to Patrolmen Edward Kelly and James Copinger, "you came here before as members of the liquor squad and the other she appeared in the Police Court at Boston.

"You have no warrant, there is nothing here for you, and I won't let you in."

The policemen as members of the Lynn liquor squad, raided Mrs. Tapper's house twice during the past year, obtaining stills, mash and other home-brewing paraphernalia. As a result of one raid Mrs. Tapper was fined $125. In consequence of the liquor squad and the other she appeared in the Police Court at Boston.

NAVY MEN ON "WET" LIST AUTO PROSPECT

Washington, March 14.—The Washington Post printed an article today by James M. Connor saying that the list of names seized by prohibition enforcement agents in the recent raid of his home in which included a number of army, navy and marine corps officers and several officials of the State Department, were those of "persons for whom I had sold liquor as alleged." Connor asserted that the 400 names were listed as automobile sales prospects.

PROMOTER IS RE-ARRESTED ON 2 CHARGES

This was a day of trouble for William E. Wood, alleged promoter of the Loyal American Training Corps, who lives at No. 376 Columbus avenue.

Wood was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes on the charge of fraudulent use of the mails in connection with his military hobby, furnished $1,000 surety and was ordered to appear on March 22 for a hearing.

On the sidewalk as he left the Federal Building he was rearrested on two new warrants charging larceny. He was taken in custody by Sergeant Avery of Quincy, who was the first man to trap Wood, whom the Federal authorities had been hunting for eighteen months.

Then Inspector Linehan of Malden took Wood on a warrant charging larceny of $10 from the proprietor of Arthur's Lunch, Perry street, Malden. Sergeant Avery's warrant charged Wood with larceny of $10 from Sam Whenas, owner of a Quincy lunchroom.

The money is alleged to have been contributed to Wood in connection with his representations relative to the Loyal American Training Corps. Sergeant Avery and Inspector Linehan said new complaints are daily being lodged against Wood.

He is charged with violating the Federal law by mailing letters concerning his corps work, including one to Mrs. William L. Putnam of No. 40 Beacon street, mother of the American ace killed in action over seas.

KILL BILLS FOR STATE INSURANCE FUND

All bills for establishment of a State fund for the transaction of Workmen's Compensation Insurance were reported adversely in the Legislature today by the Committee on Judiciary. The purpose of them is to permit the employers to insure their employes against injuries and death through the State as well as through private insurance corporations. Prolonged fights in House and Senate will result from the Committee's attitude. The bills to allow employes to do their own insurance business were also rejected.

FINE LYNN MERCHANT $125 IN "WET" CASE

Samuel Viner, owner of a dry goods store at No. 317 Western avenue, Lynn, paid a fine of $125 in Lynn court today for keeping liquor for sale. A charge of illegal sale of liquor was filed. Viner's place was raided and two quarts of liquor obtained.

FIND MORPHINE PEDLARS LEFT IN HOTEL

After a ten-day search the police of the Lagrange street station today found a big supply of morphine which they knew was somewhere in Boston. On March 4 John B. La Rooche, alias Mason, and G. B. Hill, alias Pierce, were arrested on charges of violating the narcotic laws.

Two days later they were arraigned and held for the Grand Jury in $5,000 each, and sent to jail in default. La Rooche lives in Manchester, N. H., and Hill in Londonville, Vt., and both have residences in Montreal. The police say that they are smugglers of narcotics in a big way.

Today it was reported that there was an unclaimed bag in a bedroom in the St. Regis Hotel on Essex street, which had been left there by two young men who disappeared March 6. The police secured the bag and found in it fifteen bottles, containing seventy-five ounces of morphine. A chambermaid was taken to police headquarters and identified LaRooche and Hill as the men who left the bag at the St. Regis, picking them out at once from a group of young men.

The morphine found in the bag is valued at $25 an ounce, when sold in a legitimate way, but its value to dope pedlars when sold in "decks" is many times that sum.

OUSTED BY FORBES, CRAMER KILLS SELF

Washington, March 14 (By International News Service).—Charles F. Cramer, former chief of the legal division of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who was dismissed as one of the last official acts of Colonel Charles R. Forbes, the retiring director, committed suicide today, according to a report to the police. He was about forty-five years old.

CAPE BRETON CUT OFF BY SNOWSTORMS

Halifax, N. S., March 14.—A series of severe snowstorms has blockaded the Cape Breton section. Inverness has been cut off from train service ten days. Hundreds of men with snowplows and engines have worked without success in an effort to open the line, the drifts rising to a height of twelve to fifteen feet along a three-mile stretch. The Cape Breton coal mines have been forced to suspend.

GOVERNOR'S NIGHT AT THE AUTO SHOW

Tonight will be Governor's night at the automobile show in Mechanics Building and at the Copley-Plaza. Governor Cox with his staff and State officials will visit both shows during the evening and Greater Boston society will be out in force. The Governor's party will first visit the Mechanics Building show, and after looking over the displays there will motor to the Copley-Plaza to see the finis car types in the salon there, a day or two.

Arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the distinguished guests at both places.

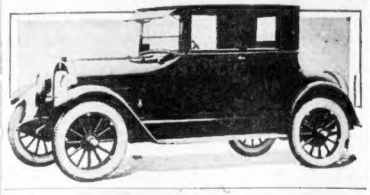
Water Indicator Insured

The water indicator furnished with the Maxwell sport touring and Maxwell sport roadster is insured against loss by theft for one year.

New Tire Advance

B. F. Goodrich Co. will advance tire prices about 10 per cent. within five car types in the salon there, a day or two.

NEW DURANT COUPE



BIG "RAINBOW" EXHIBIT OF DURANT CARS

Durant cars in the new colors which have proved so attractive to visitors to the automobile show, and some new cars just received from the Durant factory at Elizabeth, N. J., have been arranged in a special "rainbow" exhibit in the salesroom of the Collins Motor Car Company, Durant distributors, No. 838 Commonwealth avenue.

This exhibit shows to splendid advantage the new color combinations which Durant is offering this year, and includes both standard and sport models of the Durant touring, roadster and sedan.

Twenty-five Standard and sport models are included in the list of special color jobs in the 1923 Durant line. Practically all of the cars in the "rainbow" exhibit at the Collins Motor Car Company salesrooms have been sold.

DORTS COMING BY TRAINLOAD

The instantaneous success of the new Dort Six is reflected in the largely increased volume of business recorded by the Utterback-Gleason Company. This increase for December, January and February on deliveries to New England dealers and retail purchasers amounts to 353 per cent. over last year.

Trainload shipments have been arranged to take care of this unusual demand, one trainload of forty-one freight cars now being enroute and another arranged to leave the factory the middle of this month. Approximately 40 per cent. of these shipments are closed cars.

"We are confident the Spring business this year will tax our ability to deliver cars," says W. H. Gleason of the Utterback-Gleason Company in commenting on these shipments.

"With the popularity of the Dort Six steadily increasing and the business conditions throughout New England in a particularly healthy condition, the stage is set for a remarkable business in the automotive industry. And we intend to take advantage of the situation."

All-Steel Closed Bodies Make Dodge Cars Popular

Again Dodge Brothers, with a line of four-cylinder cars whose dependability is known the world over, has its host of admirers at the show.

During the past year the body lines were improved in appearance by the adoption of a higher radiator and hood. In its new dress the company has succeeded in adding attractiveness to reliability.

A great deal of the popularity of this line is due to the all-steel closed bodies which this manufacturer introduced about a year ago. The business coupe and business sedan have this construction. Touring, roadster and regular sedan complete this line of five body types.

INSURE DELIVERY OF DODGE CARS

With more than $400,000 in unfilled orders, and with additional business being booked in unprecedented volume every day since the Automobile Show opened, the Boston Dodge Brothers Car dealer took unusual measures yesterday to insure Spring deliveries.

An interchange of telegrams with Detroit resulted in carte blanche being given the factory to draft all available freight and express cars and to load and ship without further notice all possible Dodge Brothers cars of all types.

"Although we reach the first peak of the season with more business in hand than ever before in my 25 years of automobile merchandising," said Mr. Henshaw, "we are going to disappoint no customer if it is humanly possible to avoid it.

"With the factory producing over 700 cars per day our normal shipments are bigger than ever. Just as soon as the freight embargo began to lift we procured large shipments of cars, and now we have taken measures to commandeer every shipping facility in addition to our regular allotment.

"Indications are that show sales will far exceed any other year, just as our Winter and Spring business ran ahead of all previous seasons.

"We have been helped this year by the fact that people who want Dodge Brothers cars have learned by experience that orders should be placed early. This will obviate in some measure the disappointment customers have felt in other years because of belated deliveries resulting from demand outstripping supply."

CHALMERS CARS ATTRACT MANY AT AUTO SHOW

That the further development of Chalmers, prophesied when Maxwell interests acquired the entire Chalmers properties, has already begun to materialize, is clearly evident at the automobile show. Several new body models, conceded to represent an ultra modern conception of the present trend in design are presented for the first time to local show visitors.

With a new sedan and sport tour-ing added to the present popular models, Chalmers opens the 1923 season with a group of cars apparently certain to find favor with a number of classes of owners.

The handsome new sedan met with an enthusiastic reception, and because of several innovations in design is a much-inspected vehicle, even by those accustomed to the highest grade of custom body work. Mounted on a 122-inch chassis, is unusually spacious and comfortable, even when the full load of seven passengers is aboard. The interior trim lives up to the highest traditions of closed car luxury. The upholstery is in mohair velvet, cushions and back-rest being of a gray striped pattern with head lining and upper sides in plain gray.

Convenience Marked In Chalmers Six Sedan-Coach

The convenience and comfort of the Chalmers Six Sedan-Coach are outstanding reasons for its immense popularity.

Then, too, the wonderful performance of the Chalmers Six engine is causing the Chalmers to be enthusiastically discussed everywhere.

We would welcome the opportunity to exhibit the Chalmers Six Sedan-Coach to you at your own home.

STAR CARAVAN BUCKS STORM WITH EASE

Fifteen Star cars, one of a number of daily driveaways received by the Collins Motor Car Company, No. 838 Commonwealth avenue, from the Durant plant at Elizabeth, N. J., demonstrated last week it takes more than a New England blizzard to stop them on the roads.

At the heights of last week's storm, which started on Tuesday in New York, the fifteen Stars left Elizabeth and reached New London without any trouble in spite of the blinding snowstorm and high winds. The next day the drive from New London to Boston was made.

Road tests of the pulling power of the Star car motor were made by the drivers when it was frequently necessary to climb the high snow banks beside the highways to get around motor trucks stalled in the deep-rutted roads.

Because of traffic conditions on New England railways, driveaways have been found the only way to meet the demand for Durant and Star cars for immediate delivery.

Equal Braking Force

The Maxwell emergency brake delivers equal braking force to each rear wheel. The band is on the transmission shaft and of course must be equally applied to each wheel through the differential.

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

So eloquent of quality has its emblem become that prospective owners are convinced that all they need to know about the car is that it is a Cadillac.

EVERY MONTH IS PEAK ONE FOR FORD CARS

"Peaks in car sales usually are reached during the Summer months with drops in the Fall and Winter. The last few months have seen this completely changed so far as Ford dealers are concerned. Every month the eleven months now has been a peak month, you might say, and the selling lines on the chart have been raised to include every month in the year.

"With the constantly increasing call for Ford cars and trucks to meet the pleasure and business requirements of a great public that has come to accept the Ford as the most practical and economical automobile, there appears to be a certainty that none will be disappointed, will have to wait, until production, which is being speeded to the utmost consistent with the high standards of the Ford Motor Company, catches up with the demand. It is apparent that this shortage will continue until Fall, at least, present indications point that way."

New Style Windshield

The windshield used in Maxwell closed cars is of original design. Both sections of it swing outward, the upper half being hinged from its top and the lower half from the bottom. The entire assembly is set in a water tight, rattle proof channel. This is effective in developing the complete control of ventilation

300 CHEVROLET DEALERS MEET AT LUNCHEON

More than 300 Chevrolet dealers and service managers are meeting today in the Egyptian Room of the Hotel Brunswick as guests of W. C. Sills, president of Sills-Chevrolet Company, for a general "get-together" meeting and luncheon.

At the speakers' table with Mr. Sills are: K. T. Keller, vice-president of Chevrolet Motor Company, Detroit, in charge of production; C. E. Dawson, assistant to General Sales Manager Campbell, Detroit; C. B. Baldwin, parts and service manager, Detroit, and D. S. Eddins, regional manager, Tarrytown, New York.

These dealers and service men, who are members of the Sills-Chevrolet family in New England, are not only optimistic, but enthusiastic over Chevrolet prospects for the coming season. The new superior models are creating a great deal of favorable comment everywhere, and dealers report a heavy demand for Chevrolet for immediate and Spring delivery.

Mr. Sills says: "We are selling more than automobiles, we are selling economical transportation, and the increasing sales for Chevrolet right now is evidence of the fact that the line is meeting fully the public demand for low price, high quality and low upkeep.

MACLITE STORAGE BATTERY PLANT

The Maclite battery is one automobile product built in New England that really excels. This product is distributed in Boston by Farley & MacNeill, 575 Washington street and 17 Avery street.

The history of the Maclite is extremely interesting, in fact it may be said to have begun with the birth of the practical storage of electricity in 1881, when Camille Faure secured his patent for preparing the active materials of lead storage cells to oxides or other salts, mechanically applied to the surface of the electrodes, thereby obviating Plante's long and wearisome process of formation from the material of the electrodes themselves.

INVENTORS BUSY.

From that historical date until today, inventors throughout England, the European continent and the United States have vied with each other in working out and patenting new designs of lead cells based on the methods of Faure and Plante.

"The Maclite," said P. H. MacNeill of Farley & MacNeill, "is unlike any other battery made. It represents the highest development in the reconstruction of storage batteries for use in the starting and lighting of automobiles. It is the 100 per cent. storage battery, because it is the one battery that combines the three essential features necessary for automobile starting an dlighting ruggedness, oversize and long life."

QUALITY PRODUCT.

"It is a quality product. Everything entering into the manufacture of this battery is tested in the Maclite laboratory by chemists specially trained for this work. The weaknesses of other batteries have been studied and these weaknesses eliminated in the Maclite. The Maclite battery is in use by the Boston Fire Department and many other large and exacting battery users.

The most important feature in the consideration of any battery is reliability. Back of the Maclite is an organization that is big, not only in the size of its plant, but bg in its service, big in its policies. An organization whose foundation policy is to make it a god concern wth which to do business.

The Maclite radio storage battery is also in a class by itself. While it is not the cheapest at first cost, it is unquestionably the cheapest in the end, as it is extraordinarily rugged, safe and also beautiful, being enclosed in a handsome mahogany-finished hinged covered case.

Solve Curtains Problems

Maxwell has evidently solved the problem of storing side curtains when not in use. In the touring models a pocket is provided in which the curtains are stored in an upright position. This has come in for many thanks from appreciative motorists.

NEW FLINT SIX MAKES WIDE APPEAL

The Flint Six, W. C. Durant's latest contribution to the popular-priced six-cylinder class, was unveiled at space at the show in which Connell & McKone, Boston distributors for the Flint Six, have had their exhibition since 1911.

Three body types, a touring car, a coupe and a sedan, a chassis and a motor, make up the Flint display.

Interest in the new Flint Six is increased through the fact that it comes into a price class of wide appeal.

120-INCH WHEELBASE.

The Flint Six is a car of 120-inch wheelbase, powered by a seven-bearing engine larger than usual in cars in its price class. The motor is of the L-head type, with a seven-bearing crankshaft which is claimed to eliminate vibration, and unusually large valves and an automatic cooling system. Not only are the water passages large, but there is a thermostat control which maintains an even motor temperature at all times, performing the same functions as radiator shutters and other devices, except that the thermostat control in the Flint is built in as a part of the motor.

70-HORSE POWER MOTOR.

The motor develops 70-horse power at 2,500 revolutions, and has unusual quietness and lack of vibration, the designers say. It is said the Flint Six will drive smoothly up a 18 per cent. grade with a full load at a speed of ten miles an hour in high gear.

Accessibility of the entire mechanical assembly is brought about through a series of minor assemblies, which may be removed as a unit without disturbing other units. The clutch, valves, transmission and other parts may be removed as separate units without disturbing other parts.

The chassis is well balanced throughout and the frame is exceptionally rigid. The Durant tubular backbone, present in all Durant models, is one of the features of the Flint Six. This backbone functions to make the frame rigid. In the Flint, however, the backbone construction has been carried even further than in the Durant and Star.

century doesn't acknowledge me, another century will."

IT IS ANNOUNCED, on authority not absolute, that Germany will agree to pay thirty billion gold marks, about seven thousand five hundred million gold dollars, and no more, if she can be let alone and get a receipt in full.

It is doubtful whether the French financiers and industrialists that govern French-German policy through Poincare will consent.

BOSTON LAWYER ENDS LIFE BY GAS

Thomas Tileston Baldwin, sixty years old, of No. 260 Beacon street, and an attorney with offices at No. 201 Devonshire street, committed suicide in the kitchen of his apartment by inhaling illuminating gas. His body was found by his wife on her return home. Four jets connected with a gas stove were found turned on. Firemen with a pulmotor tried to restore life in vain.

HARVARD LIBERALS OPPOSE LOWELL

The Harvard Student Liberal Club, in a statement, comes out in opposition to the view of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard in regard to racial discrimination. The resolution passed declares "any limitations which may be placed upon admission to Harvard University should not be based upon the race or the religion of the applicants for admission."

THE Durant car is the product of an organization that has been designing and building vehicles for 35 years. This experience is now reflected in the perfection of the Durant, from the smallest detail to the most important features.

The Power of Public Opinion

No movement has ever succeeded—can ever succeed—without the backing of public opinion.

In the March Issue of MoToR is an article dealing with the formation of The Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation.

The purpose of this League may be seen from the pledge given below.

In standing squarely in back of this important movement, MoToR feels it can render a definite service to the ten million car owners who throng the highways of America.

The League bears the endorsement, among others, of President Harding, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the Governors of many States, mayors of cities and prominent individuals from all parts of the country.

Your interest as a car owner—as a prospective car owner, alone is necessary. The League has no dues—no fees.

And from the American public, from the millions who find delight and recreation in the broad highways that lead to the national parks, the State reservations, the public camping sites, the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation asks support.

Through its editorial pages, MoToR is glad to lend its influence in fostering a movement that will have such a wide and beneficent influence.

In succeeding issues of MoToR you will find the work of the League, its progress, the formation of the local chapters, etc., given wide publicity.

You as a motorist will find this story of definite interest.

Public opinion—the force behind any movement—is appealed to for hearty support.

The March issue of MoToR, with the League's story, is on sale at all newsstands

Pledge of The Motorists' League

"I, as a member of the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation, pledge myself to do what I can to preserve the countryside so that all may share in the enjoyment of it. To this end I will leave a resting place or camp site clean—free from papers or litter of any sort. I will be careful in making of camps and fires. I will make every effort to leave the roadside in such condition that the pleasure to be derived from it by others is not lessened through any careless act of mine."

Mail the coupon to the office of the Secretary. There is no obligation attached. You are urged to lend the force of your opinion to the furtherance of this movement and for the correction of a recognized abuse.

MIAMI READY TO GREET HARDING

Miami, Fla., March 14.—Final preparations were made today for the reception of President Harding and his vacation party, expected to arrive on the houseboat Pioneer. It is understood that Harvey S. Firestone, Ohio tire manufacturer, and a close friend of the President, has leased the James H. Snowden estate here for the entertainment of the President. A number of political leaders of both parties are in the city and the President will confer with them. Attorney-General Daugherty, who has been recuperating from his recent illness, will rejoin the party.

DAVITT COUNCIL PLANS CELEBRATION

Michael Davitt Council, A. O. H. 1, will hold its annual Irish Night and St. Patrick's celebration tomorrow evening in Paine Memorial building. Three small halls have been reserved. One hall will be given over to modern dancing, the second to Irish dances and a concert, and the third to whist. The list of invited guests includes United States Senator David I. Walsh, Joseph O. Doherty, Irish Republican envoy and Mayor Curley. Edward J. Carey is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

LIFE TERM FOR WOMAN WHO KILLED 13

Chicago, March 14.—Convicted for the alleged poisoning of her third husband, Mrs. Tillie Klimek today held the unique position of being the first woman ever sentenced to life imprisonment in Cook County courts.

Fourteen persons, thirteen of whom are dead, have been listed by county authorities as victims of an alleged poison conspiracy between Mrs. Klimek and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Kozlik, who is awaiting trial on a murder charge.

Frank Kupolyk, her third husband, was the "corpus delicti" named in Mrs. Klimek's trial which ended with her conviction. Her fourth husband is in hospital here, poisoned, according to physicians, from the effects of rat poison.

Baltimore—The condition of William S. Carter, former grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who is critically ill with bright's disease, was unchanged today.

Vincent Club Girl April Bride, Says Betty Alden

Miss Mary Forbes Atkinson, whose marriage to Henry Francis Colt takes place April 7 in the First Parish Church of Brookline. Miss Atkinson is on the high seas returning from Paris.

MISS MARY FORBES ATKINSON

By BETTY ALDEN.

BOUND for home and a wedding is Mary Atkinson. She's the daughter of the Edward W. Atkinsons and is probably one of the most versatile girls of Boston society.

Miss Atkinson, a slender girl with soft brown hair and gray-blue eyes, has spent not a few years studying in Paris. She's taken vocal lessons there, and speaks French not only fluently but most successfully. She's a member of the 1919 Sewing Circle and the Vincent Club.

Three years ago the Vincent Club presented a lilting operetta called "Saint," the music of which was written by Miss Atkinson. "Saint" was one of the most entertaining shows ever presented by the club. It took the form of an Oriental romance in which the fair Vincent girls danced their way from London to mystic Cairo.

BUT about Miss Atkinson's wedding—this important event is to take place on April 7 at 3 o'clock at the First Parish Church of Brookline, where, by the way, a number of smart ceremonials have been solemnized within the past season.

The prospective groom is Henry Francis Colt of Geneseo, N. Y., the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Colt of that city, but who are at present residing abroad. Mr. Colt is a Harvard man, graduating with the class of '22. His club holdings include the A. D. Club, the D. K. E. and the Institute of 1770. His engagement to Miss Atkinson was announced a few months ago.

Just now the bride-to-be is on the high seas, and I hear that at the Brookline home of her parents she is expected to arrive on Friday or Saturday of this week.

The clever author of "Saint" is returning from rather a flying trip to Paris, where—whisper the words—she procured her trousseau and wedding gown. (Pages the wedding fans!) She made the trip over to France on the same boat with Miss Mary Barton, who is to remain abroad for quite a while longer.

Unless the bride-to-be changes her mind in the interim, I understand that she will have no attendants at her wedding, for which the many family connections, including the Russells and the Forbeses, will turn out.

MALCOLM GREENOUGH of Gloucester street is cruising about the West Indies, where he finds the weather "almost unbearably warm." Lucky Mr. Greenough!

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM G. POTTER (Rose Lee Saltonstall) are spending their honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va. The marriage of the daughter of Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall of Chestnut street to Mr. Potter—a New York man—was quietly solemnized last Saturday at the Dedham home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Weld (Katherine Saltonstall).

Also at Hot Springs are the Misses Theodora and Natalie Winslow, daughters of Rear Admiral Cameron McRae Winslow of Bay State road. The girls spend most of their time at the Southern resort either in the saddle or on the tennis courts.

ONE of the judges at the horse show the other day at Aiken, S. C., was Quincy Adams Shaw, 2nd. He and Mrs. Shaw (Nancen Mitchell) are prominent members of the Boston colony at Aiken, where they are spending the entire Winter.

MRS. SALUDES GETS 20 YEARS TO LIFE

New York, March 14 (By International News Service).—Mrs. Paulette Saludes, convicted of second degree murder for killing of Oscar Martellere, today was sentenced from twenty years to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Saludes refused to leave her cell in the Tombs. She had to be forcibly dressed by the matron and several other women attendants, and taken to court.

Mrs. Saludes had complained of being ill before she was taken to court. When she was across the Bridge of Sighs, leading from the Tombs to the criminal courts, she was taken into a waiting room near collapse. Finally, with deputy sheriffs firmly holding her by the arms and three court officers and the prison matron and physician in close attendance, she was led into the courtroom.

She appeared to be in a kind of a daze and listened to the preliminaries without displaying any interest. Her counsel, James A. Turley, moved that sentence be deferred on the ground that his client was insane. He asked that a commission be appointed to pass on her mental condition. He said she was afflicted with suicidal mania. Judge Koenig denied the motion.

COLLEGE GETS 1768 WILL OF WESLEY

$150,000 RAISED FOR PALESTINE HOMES

New York, March 14.—With $150,000 toward the $2,000,000 being raised already subscribed, the effort to resettle in Palestine thousands of Jewish refugees driven out of eastern and southern Europe began today. The subscriptions were made at a dinner in honor of Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist movement. Ex-Magistrate Bernard S. Rosenblatt declared millions of Jews in eastern Europe are knocking at the gates of Palestine, ready and willing to give their bodies and souls for the upbuilding of the homeland.

Ching Chong Card Game

Ching Chong is a new game of cards in which all of the characters and interesting features of an ancient Chinese game have been combined with the best features of several well known games of cards.

Ching Chong may be played by one to six persons. The fundamentals of the game are simple. Once these are mastered, the game is indeed fascinating and interesting, even to the keenest minds.

With each game you receive a small instruction book which gives the basic rules. From these the game may be gradually mastered.

STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN

By Jo Swerling

THE GENTLEMAN FROM NEWBURYPORT: Enemy of the Most-Cutting Camofleurs, who in House Bill No. 1098 tears up by the roots a move to strike at the foundations of American Liberties and the cause of freedom.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1098

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth is an august, austere body. It is the cerebrum-cerebellum of the State body politic. It is the stage upon which are enacted pregnant, momentous operas of legislation. The Pooh-Bah of the House is the Speaker, who does less speaking than any of the Representatives. There are the two monitors, whose functions are identical with the monitors appointed by the teachers in the public schools. They look to see if any of the members break any of the rules, or make too free a use of their rhetorical putty-blowers. If they catch offenders, they report them to the Speaker, who, probably, makes them stay after school and read the Journal of the House twenty times.

There is the clerk, who keeps the Journal — a thrilling assignment. There are the members, who are not permitted to absent themselves without leave. And there are the committees—or, Ways and Means, on the Judiciary, on Elections, on Bills in the Third Reading, on Engrossed Bills and the Committee of the Whole.

It is a vast mill, through which is ground the wheat and the chaff of State laws, petitions, memorials, remonstrances, appropriations (here there is a smacking of lips) and other matters affecting the weal of the Commonwealth.

In all the records of all the State Legislatures that ever convened, there is no mention of a Representative who went through a term without offering a bill. If there is such a Representative, we would like to hear of or from him. He is the stuff of which history is made. Representatives have bills like women have babies, playwrights plays and budding poets Spring sonnets. No Representative is complete without a bill. Which brings us down to House Bill No. 1098.

It is entitled "An Act to prevent the adulteration of Certain Foods"

Blowing Up the Leg of Veal

The proud father of House Bill No. 1098, who hopes some time to see it blazoned on the Commonwealth's statute books, is Representative T. D. Donahue of Newburyport. Prior to dedicating his services to the State as a legislator, Mr. Donahue had to do with meat. For fifteen years he was inspector of slaughtering in his district. There are tricks to every trade, including the butcher's. Thereby hangs House Bill No. 1098.

"Every housewife in the State should agitate for the passage of my bill," said Mr. Donahue. There was a heart-warming possessive quality about the "my."

"Every day, in all parts of the State, blown up legs of veal are sold to unsuspecting buyers. As an old trick but one that has never before been brought to the public's attention.

"It is done in this manner. The butcher takes a thin, anemic leg of veal. Hung in his window it attracts no attention. It does not fill the passing housewife with any urge of purchase. It gets no responsive reaction from the palate. In a word, it is not appetising.

"The law, as it stands at present, forbids the stuffing of a leg of veal with any foreign substance, except air. Air has never been mentioned. So our brainy butcher cuts a hole at one end of the thin leg of veal. He places his mouth to the aperture. He blows. The leg of veal swells. It assumes robust, healthy dimensions. It is camouflaged to appear to have much more substance than it really has.

Uses Pump in Camouflage

"The progressive butcher does it wholesale. He uses a common bicycle pump to blow up those legs of veal. Veal has the peculiar property of retaining the air blown into the tissues for an indefinite period.

"Here is a menace to the State that has been overlooked for years. It has been on my mind during all the years I was inspector of slaughtering. Now the bill is on its way through the usual routine. I trust that it passes."

This department of the American is in hearty accord with Representative Donahue in his noble crusade against blown-up legs of veal. Down with the meat-cutting camofleurs. They are un-American, they violate the spirit of fair play and the Sherman anti-trust law, they strike at the very foundations of the structure of political liberty, and we, for one, are with the gentleman from Newburyport until the last blown-up leg of veal has been banished from Massachusetts.

HAYES IS BEST 'LITTLE FIXER' IN TOWN

As a "fixer" United States Commissioner Hayes is there. In Federal Court today he "fixed" a case in less than two minutes and there by bore out the statements made the previous day by Federal Prohibition Agent Sullivan that the commissioner was the one man in Boston who could "fix" a liquor case.

The commissioner's method of "fixing" the case was contained in one sentence, "$500 bail for court."

Jacob Rocco, proprietor of a lunch room in Newburyport, was the man who wanted his case fixed. Agent Sullivan and Hall were having breakfast in the lunch room when a man came in and asked Rocco if it would be all right to wash his hands.

"Sure, Mike," Rocco replied, and the man stepped into the kitchen. He emerged a few minutes later wiping his lips and carrying with him a strong smell of alcohol.

Then Agent Sullivan expressed a desire to wash his hands and he was invited into the kitchen. A pint bottle was filled from a two-gallon jug of alcohol and handed to the Federal agent. Then he placed Rocco under arrest.

"Can't this be fixed?" Rocco asked. Sullivan, replying in Rocco's own language, said: "Sure, Mike."

"How can I get it fixed," Rocco inquired.

"You come down to the Federal building at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and see Commissioner Hayes; he is the best little fixer you ever saw," Sullivan told him.

"That's right, I am some fixer," the commissioner commented when told of the facts.

Rocco will be placed on trial before Federal Judge Morton next week.

GUILTY IN STRIKE BENEFIT THEFTS

Joseph M. Wartow was found guilty in a jury verdict in Suffolk Superior Court today of larceny of $378 in strike benefits from the International Typographical Union.

He was accused in eighteen counts of $21 each and was convicted on all. The benefits ran from June 14 to November 29, 1922.

Government witnesses testified that through the time he was receiving strike benefits he was actually employed in a Norwood printery place.

Wartow explained that President Sylvester McBride of the typographical local told him to remain on the job at Norwood and report what went on in that shop, assuring him he would get his strike benefits meanwhile. Wartow declared he refused to be spy.

Union officials denied these statements of Wartow.

COOLIDGES ON WAY HOME FOR A REST

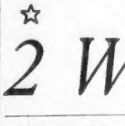
Springfield, March 14.—Vice-President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge arrived here today en route to their home in Northampton, where they will rest after the Washington session. Mrs. Coolidge plans also to visit her father in Burlington, Vt., who is ill. The Vice-President declined to discuss politics.

ACCUSES MATE ON DEATHBED

Victim, in Dying Statement, Says Spouse Had No Cause to Kill Her

Mrs. Michael Saracusa, who was shot five times by her husband Michael, as she came out of City Hospital after visiting her sick boy Samuel yesterday, died in that hospital today.

In a dying statement Mrs. Saracusa identified her husband as the one who shot her. She said that he was jealous, but without cause.



Michael Saracusa

Saracusa, who is a coal pedlar, lives at No. 2 Perch street, South End. The shooting took place in front of No. 45 East Springfield street, near City Hospital.

Saracusa, who was arrested soon after the shooting, was arraigned before Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court today. He was held without bail for a hearing next Wednesday.

PARTED A YEAR.

The couple separated nearly a year ago. One child was placed in a home and Mrs. Saracusa took her own to live with her at No. 116 West Canton street, South End. Last May Saracusa was arrested charged with threatening her and with non-support.

Patrolman F. I. Morrill

Rumors that his wife had been receiving the attentions of another man were heard by Saracusa several weeks ago and neighbors say that he told them he would put a stop to it.

After the shooting Saracusa ran towards Harrison avenue, but J. J. Sullivan of No. 11 Dean street, Roxbury, William H. Sullivan, Kevin J. Mullian and George McKernan caught and held him until Policeman Fred I. Morrill arrived. The revolver, with five shots discharged, was found near the scene of the shooting.

A City Hospital ambulance in charge of Joseph F. Halley of No. 83 Sharon street, and Frank Curry of No. 69 Bacheldo street, Roxbury, speeding to the locality with a patient, was stopped, and Mrs. Saracusa taken to the hospital. The woman had been hit in the abdomen, cheek, shoulder, forearm and wrist.

2 CHILDREN DIE IN CAMBRIDGE FIRE

The grim hand of death paid a return visit to the Cambridge home of Edward A. Bushman, a marketman, snuffed out the lives of his two motherless children by smoke, so badly burned his seventy-two-year-old crippled mother that her recovery is doubtful and reduced his house at No. 253 Pearl street to a smouldering ruins.

Reita Bushman.

Only two weeks ago death had taken away Bushman's wife.

At the Cambridge Relief Hospital, where Mr. Bushman was taken to the bodies of his children, Reita, four years old, and Francis, five years old, he collapsed.

The fire was caused, it is said, by a lighted lamp being dropped by little Francis.

MAINE BANK CLOSED BY HUB CRASH

Lincoln Trust Company of Wiscasset Victim of Burgess-Lang Bankruptcy

The Lincoln County Trust Company at Wiscasset, Me., virtually a subsidiary of the bankrupt brokerage firm, Burgess, Lang and Company of this city, was closed today by order of Fred F. Lawrence, bank commissioner of Maine.

The commissioner obtained an injunction restraining the bank officials from transacting business pending the appointment of a receiver on March 29. While he declares the institution insolvent, the exact amount of the liabilities and the assets is unknown at present.

Mr. Lawrence said the insolvency was due to the shrinkage in value of securities held by the bank. Those are the same holdings which led to the downfall of the Burgess, Lang concern, the principal stockholders.

The commissioner does not charge anyone with responsibility for the impairment of credit and says he has hopes of a reorganization whereby all the money of depositors may be safeguarded. There was $376,206 in the savings department and $87,538 of demand deposits in January. The capital stock is $50,000. Albert M. Card is the president.

Burgess Lang & Co. went into bankruptcy March 18, 1922. Liabilities were estimated at $1,500,000. Both William H. Burgess of Lexington and Howard W. Lang held large individual holdings in Maine and New Hampshire banks and manufacturing concerns.

MAIDENS WIN! HEART BALM LAW STANDS

The breach of promise law stand.

The gay rascal who toys with a sweet woman's affection will have to pay.

The legislative Committee on Judiciary met today and voted to reject Representative Martin Hays' anti-heart-balm bill.

Hays' bill would have abolished breach of promise suits.

It would have refused compensation to the maiden whose heart had been damaged.

Mental anguish, impairment of opportunity for marriage and the other numerous cases for breach of promise suits would have been thrown into the discard by it.

The maiden would have been allowed to collect only for her wedding trousseau and for other actual expenses incurred by the arrangements for the wedding.

Hays said all breach of promise suits are nothing more or less than blackmail.

The committee disagreed with him.

10 ICEHOUSES, OWNED IN BOSTON, BURNED

Laconia, N. H., March 14.—Ten ice houses owned by the Metropolitan Ice Company of Boston and situated two miles this side of The Weirs on the Boston & Maine railroad were totally destroyed today by a fire of undetermined origin together with their contents. The loss is placed at $50,000.

Tomorrow was to have seen the completion of the filling of the houses, which hold 50,000 tons of ice.

If You're a Good Prevaricator, Welcome to the Liars' Contest

Three Postmasters Get the Theatre Ticket Prizes Today. Looks Like All of Boston Are Liars

On the level, Honest Injun and cross our editorial hearts! We have a guilty feeling today.

Postmaster Baker called up this morning and said something would have to be done about this Liars' Contest. He said that three letter-carriers who have been delivering mail to the Liars' Contest were on the sick list. Curvature of the spine, from carrying the heavy mail bags. We told him we'd take care of it. We'd go over to the postoffice and carry our own mail. We're probably the best mail-carrier in Boston. Four bags at a time, when the weather isn't too slushy.

TODAY'S WINNING WHOPPERS:

"A BLACK LIE which has caused me to have a black eye with theatre managers all my life. I have told it a hundred times and each time it got me in wrong. It has wrecked a promising career. For thirty years I have pulled it. I told it first to Jennie Kimball, manager of the Tittle Comic Opera company. It didn't last long there. Then to Healey & Bigelow's Indian Kickapoo Medicine Company. Out of luck. Then to H. T. Dry's Mindicum Out! Some results. Every time I told that black lie I got in wrong. The lie is this: I am a good one for the ponies. I have my bones, if I were asked today. 'Could you play the part of Lightnin' Bill as well as Percy Pollock,' I would have to tell the same black lie again and admit I could.

BERT HOWE.

"No. 391 Telegraph street, South Boston."

Bert may never play in "Lightnin'," but he can see the show. A couple of ducats awaits him. All he has to do is to call on the Liars' Contest Editor.

MEET ANOTHER LIAR.

Mr. W. P. Oury of Building No. 39 in the Navy Yard at Charlestown—a good one and an excellent liar—sends the following:

"I don't claim to be much of a liar, but I want to tell you about the time I went duck huntin' a few years ago. While rambilin' around through the bullrushes—you notice I say BULLrushes—I stumbled onto a gang o' ducks. I raised my sextuple barreled shotgun to snap a few, as I was a-lukin' alm when I caught sight of a moh o' geese flappin' overhead.

"I up and switched my aim for the geese when a cordon o' turkeys strolled right in front o' me. I was just about to annihilate the turks when I piped a big rattlesnake giving me the O. O. I wanted that blamed rattler. I closed both eyes and pulled all six triggers. The ramrod flew out and choked the rattler.

TWO TICKETS FOR JOE.

"The first barrel killed all the ducks, the second bumped off the geese, the third assassinated the turks, the fourth got a select group of partridges that was flyin' around at the moment, the fifth killed a bull moose feedin' in the rushes, the sixth got a bear on the shore and the kick o' the gun knocked me into the crick. So help me, when I came up both my pockets was filled with fish. Do I go to Lightnin'?"

You go, Brother Oury, you go, with our blessings and admiration.

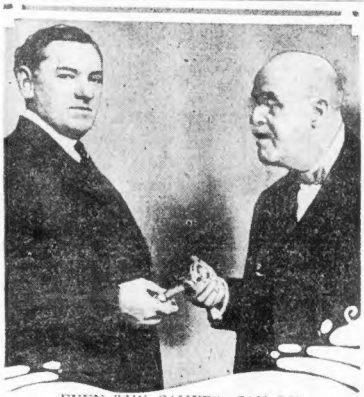
Joseph O'Brien of No. 17 Vine street, Roxbury, tells about the time he tried to commit suicide:

"I wanted to make sure," he writes, "so I got me a gun, some matches, a bottle of acid and some rope. I hired a boat and rowed down the stream to a big tree that overhung the water. I made a noose and threw the rope over one of the branches. Then I poured kerosene all over my clothes and set fire to them, drank the acid put the noose over my head and kicked the boat from under me. I then fired a bullet at my head. But I missed. The bullet hit the rope, which caused me to fall into the water. This put out the fire in my clothes. I swallowed a lot of water, which made me disgorge the acid. And here I am today, alive and well."

You should live, John. The ducats are on us.

Remember, in addition to giving a pair of tickets to the writer of each lie printed, there will be three special prizes of ten-dollar gold pieces awarded at the wind-up of this epochal feature. One $10 piece goes to the writer of the best Black Lie, which did the most amount of harm; another to the writer of the best White Lie, which did the most amount of good, and a third to the writer of the best Funny Lie, which embodies the most vivid stretch of the imagination.

Lie to, brethren and sistern. Address your falsehoods to the Liars' Contest Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston. Lie early and often. Nobody barred, except descendants of George Washington.



EVEN THE CAMERA CAN LIE

Here is an Official, Authentic and Exclusive Liars' Contest Photograph showing Martin Lomasney making up with Mayor Curley. The photographer asked Martin to look pleasant, and he did. Now go on with the story.

BANKERS FIGHT STREET PLANS OF MAYOR

Mayor Curley's $18,000,000 street development project was subjected to a fierce attack by the Boston Real Estate Exchange today before the Committee on Municipal Finance.

"Piece-meal, illy considered, disconnected," were a few of the adjectives shot at the plan.

Attorney W. Rodman Peabody of the real estate interests said the plan to widen Exchange street from State street to Dock square would cut the heart of Boston's financial district in two. The uninterrupted flow of heavy traffic through the widened street would seriously handicap the transaction of business in the money mart, he declared.

The Lee, Higginson Company, represented by Allison G. Catheron, said the Exchange street widening would be nothing less than an invitation to all the heavy traffic of the over-crowded city. He said the way to relieve congestion is to build radial lines around the city.

Mayor Curley, at a former hearing, abandoned many of the plans set forth by him in his original project. He now stands pat on these demands.

To widen Exchange street at a cost of $1,750,000.

To widen Province street from School to Bromfield street, $600,000.

To widen Portland street, from Hanover to Washington street, $1,000,000.

To widen Summer street, from the Army Base to L street, South Boston, and to widen L street to the Strandway, $1,500,000.

To widen Cambridge street, from Charles to Court street, and Court street to Howard street, $3,500,000.

The real estate interests said they are not opposed to the Summer street and the Cambridge-Court streets projects.

BANKER TAYLOR TO FACE TRIAL IN BOSTON

Chicago, March 14.—Frank L. Taylor, $50-a-week president of the Warren National Bank, and Abraham Goldman, father-in-law of Joseph Marcino, alias Biata, barber, banker, whose operations are alleged to have crippled the Niagara Insurance Company of Buffalo, N. Y., the Warren Bank and other institutions, were directed to proceed to Boston today to face preliminary hearing on criminal charges.

Goldman, who lost a fight against extradition, was placed under bond of $5,000 and Taylor was put in bond of $25,000.

Taylor was arrested here by private detectives after alleged shortages were discovered in the Warren Bank and after it had become known that Marcino had disappeared from Buffalo. He still is being sought. Goldman's arrest followed that of Taylor's by several days. Taylor, who said he came here to confer with Goldman about the Warren Bank shortages and Marcino's flight, claimed Goldman had invested at least $28,000 in the institution.

3 APPOINTMENTS SENT TO COUNCIL

Governor Cox today sent to the council the nomination of John W. Bailey of Ipswich to be special justice of the third district court of Essex, vice Albert F. Welsh, resigned. Clarence H. Mace of Huntington was appointed medical examiner of the second Hampshire district, in place of Edward S. Winslow, resigned and Clarence I. Sparks of Easthampton was named as associated medical examiner of the second Hampshire district, taking the place of Mr. Mace.

FULLER AT PIER TO GREET PRIZE CATTLE

Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller this morning went to the Leyland Line pier, East Boston, to receive a herd of fifty-five cattle from the Isle of Guernsey on the steamer Michigan. After being in quarantine at Littleton for thirty days, the herd will be shipped to the Summer home of the Lieutenant-Governor at Rye Beach. The herd contains a prize bull, a grandson of the King of Shawsi, one of the best-known sires in the world.

The Michigan arrived ten days late. Before the herd sailed from London Winston Churchill and a number of the English notables were at the pier and lamented the loss of the cattle to England.

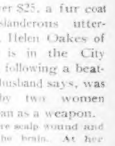
ROW BEGAN OVER $25 DEBT

One of Accused Claims Victim Was Jealous of Her Daughter's Fur Coat

A quarrel over $25, a fur coat and alleged slanderous utterances and Mrs. Helen Oakes of South Boston is in the City Hospital today, following a beating which, her husband says, was administered by two women using a sauce-pan as a weapon.

She has a severe scalp wound and concussion of the brain. At her home is her sick eight months old baby whom she was nursing. Mrs. Oakes is twenty-two.

The women Mrs. Frank Deans of No. 15 Lash street, Chelsea, and her daughter, Mrs. Carleton, live next door to Mrs. Oakes. face arrest on a charge brought by the injured woman's husband, Herbert G. Oakes, of No. 837 second street. Mrs. Deans is mother of twelve children.



Mrs. Carleton.

Mrs. Oakes was found unconscious on the kitchen floor by Timothy Mahoney, who occupies the tenement above. He was attracted by noise of the scuffle and descended the stairs as the two women fled.

Oakes believes the cause of the alleged attack was an effort on his wife's part to collect a four-year-old debt of $25.

Mrs. Deans told her story today. She said:

"Helen struck me first. She dragged my hat off and grabbed my shoulder. I shook her way and then we left. The debt of $25 was settled long ago. I called to protest about Helen's slanderous talk about me. She was envious of my daughter's fur coat.

Mrs. Oakes

"I believe she may have suffered from a fainting spell as she often has. After Helen's mother died I helped her and, when she was sick, I bought a suit for her. She paid me in installments, but she stopped with $25 due, so that wiped out her old loan to me of the same amount."

Mrs. Oakes formerly lived at No. 45 Sagamore street, Chelsea, and was a neighbor of Mrs. Deans. She was Helen Carleton before her marriage. Mrs. Deans' daughter is married to Mrs. Oakes' cousin.

CAN'T DANCE AGAIN; WINS $750 VERDICT

It is worth just $750 to a young girl to suffer injuries which will forever debar her from dancing. At least, that is the inference drawn from a sealed verdict returned today in the case of Miss Elizabeth Fields of Medford against the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The case has been tried in Superior Court, East Cambridge. Miss Fields asked $10,000 for injuries received in a rear-end car crash last July.

HEAVYWEIGHTS ARE ACES AS YOUNG FIGHTERS GAIN FAME

FIRPO AND JOHNSON TO GET DEMPSEY BOUTS

By JACK CONWAY.

Heavyweights once more control the news. They have pushed the Ruhr tangle from the front pages of the newspapers. They have made the world forget about the decline in the value of the franc and the mysterious rise in the purchasing power of the mark.

Even the overburdened head of the family pauses in his daily grind as he discusses the relative values of ponderous right hand punches and left hooks.

Moving picture Shaliks and the temperamental prima donnas of grand opera alike are obliged to be content with mere self admiration as a busy world forgets even its more serious problems to talk about Young Mister Dempsey, Luis Angel Firpo, Floyd Johnson and other men of brawn who make millions as a result of their punching power and courage rather than on account of any particular mental ability.

The thin veneer of so-called civilization is stripped from the members of our much advertised "best" families as they join the great crowd in the streets, in the cars, in the theatres, cafes, in fact, even in the very churches, who are trying to raise the rivals for heavyweight ring honors.

You may say 1923 is not far removed from the stone age or the days of the Roman arena.

Red blood likes action. That is why a heavyweight fighter will always be able to secure a greater audience than a man who has made some great scientific discovery. The average person prefers having a theory demonstrated by a powerful right hand punch backed up by 200 pounds of youthful manhood, than by a learned discussion in which the fourth dimension and Einstein theory are given prominence.

* * *

Firpo's name is on every tongue. He comes from Argentina, is six feet tall and weighs 220 pounds. Luis can give a punch, also take one. He knows little about so-called scientific boxing. Neither did Jeffries when he first attracted attention say the men most interested in the young South American.

* * *

Perhaps Firpo did not win over Bill Brennan on account of any remarkable fighting ability. Brennan may not have trained properly for the encounter. Then, too, Bill is old, and even heavyweights do not go on forever. Then there are people who will argue that the bout was pre-arranged, that the promoters wanted Firpo to win so that Luis could later battle Dempsey in Buenos Aires for a million-dollar purse. Frameups are not altogether new to the boxing game. Other sports have also felt the sting of the sure thing boys.

* * *

The public has accepted Firpo despite the ugly rumors which have surrounded the South American since his arrival in New York.

Something new, something good!

That is what the public asks. And the fans are willing to give Firpo a chance.

Firpo will not meet the winner of the Willard-Johnson bout as was first planned. No need to kill off either Firpo or Johnson. Willard is too old to stop the Californian, claim the experts. Johnson can have his bout with Dempsey this Summer. In the Fall, Dempsey will battle Firpo in Argentine, provided, of course, he wins over Johnson. And he should be successful in the Johnson engagement.

* * *

Ted Rickard promoted the Firpo-Brennan match. He will also put on the Willard-Johnson affair. Humphrey Jr. will also direct the contests in which Dempsey appears.

Champions like to fight for Rickard. He gets them the big money. And that is all that interests our fighting men today.

Harry Wills, a negro, would have a better chance against Dempsey than either Firpo or Johnson. A great scrap appeared as if Wills would receive his opportunity to battle for the world's title. The politicians then frowned on the match. Along came Firpo and Johnson. The negro was forgotten. Wills will have to get his satisfaction out of thinking what would have happened if fate had not stepped between him and a fortune.

* * *

"What do you think about the world's court?" asked the secretary of the great banker.

"Let's talk about this man Firpo," replied the man of millions.

YALE WILL ELECT O'HEARN AS CAPTAIN

New Haven, Conn., March 14—Charlie O'Hearn of Brookline will probably be elected captain of the Yale hockey team at the annual banquet tonight. Captain Bulkley and Fergie Reid will be graduated next June. Reid's condition at Eye and Ear Hospital, New York City, is reported to be slightly improved.

Mat Giants Ready for Their Big Bout

SHADE REFUSES WARD BOUT

Boston will not get the next bout between Dave Shade and George Ward.

Release a few tears and then take out your grievance on a coal baron.

New York has heard all about the torrid engagement David and George had at the Arena Club. And it has lifted up the garden for the rival welters.

A dispute over weight is the only thing that is holding up the match.

Leo Flynn, Shade's manager, wants the contest at 150 pounds. Sam Golden, who represents Ward, favors 147 pounds.

It will be remembered that when this pair collided in Boston Shade weighed 15 pounds and Ward 146.

Shade scaled 148 pounds for Eddie Shevlin and showed to much better advantage than when he weighed 155.

George Ward.

Maybe David is building himself up for a bout with Johnny Wilson.

Will Play on April 10

The Middlesex School baseball nine of North Concord will open its season on April 10, according to Manager Henry M. Clifford, who is trying to arrange a game for that date with the Rivers School team of Brookline.

JACK RENAULT IS AFTER WILLS

There must be a sad feeling in Harry Wills' heart every time he thinks of George Godfrey, the "Black Streak," who was keyed by Jack Renault last week.

Jack Renault

Harry has offered several opportunities to mingle with God-frey, but for some reason declins. Godfrey showed up so well in the ring and the gym that he looked all over a real "comer."

When he ran against the Frenchman, George didn't look so good and passed out of the picture. There is hardly any doubt that Harry would have treated Godfrey just as unkindly and would have grabbed himself a wad of dough.

Leo Flynn, who looks after the interests of Renault, is now trying to get a match with Wills for his protege. Flynn isn't telling the world that Renault can lick the entire crop of heavyweights.

On the contrary, he knows the ability of his man to the last ounce, and therefore passes up ones who smell "danger."

Renault is one man that is always fighting colored men and believes he can make it interesting for Wills. Funny thing about Renault is that he plods along fighting and seldom gets any shouts of praise for his work.

Sarazen Tells How to Play Golf

By GENE SARAZEN
World's Champion Golfer

IN making the "explosion" shot out of the trap I use the interlocking grip. In making a clean shot from the trap I employ the overlapping grip. The reason for the shift is that the "explosion" shot calls for a tremendous blow in which there is a great demand upon the strength of the wrists and arms. I dig in with my feet so that they shall not slip when I have started my swing. A slip of the feet would prove disastrous. I am firmly braced on both legs, with the knees slightly bent. I grip the club at least eight inches from the end of the shaft, with the right hand on the wood.

In this position the ball is played on a centre line of the stance. The clubhead should be two inches above and just behind the ball on the address. Just as in making a clean shot. But the back swing for the "explosion" is higher and firmer than for the clean shot.

PESEK TO SHOW KOTSONAROS NO MERCY

John Pesek, Nebraska Tiger Man, will try to claw his way to a victory over George Kotsonaros, Greek champion, when they clash in a finish match, best two falls out of three, at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night.

The tussle is for the world's light-heavyweight title. Both men are under 190 pounds. Consequently it will be impossible to attack the position of the victor.

Pesek, relentless and fierce on the mat, says he will not spare Kotsonaros. He points to the way he treated Nat Pendleton in their handicap match. The Tiger Man almost wrenched one of Pendleton's legs from his body. He crushed the former Olympic champion's arm with a bone breaking wrist lock.

Pesek maintains he is the world's greatest wrestler. He points to the fact he secured two falls over Wladek Zbyszko in twenty-seven minutes, and that Lewis and Stanislaus Zbyszko refuse to meet him.

"I am one good little man who can defeat a good big man," says Pesek.

Many of the fans who have seen the Tiger Man in action agree with him.

Nat Kotsonaros, however. The Greek champion has defeated every man of his pounds he has met in the East. He also gave Lewis and Stanislaus Zbyszko furious engagements. The Strangler was obliged to use the deadly headlock to win. A violent rope gave Zbyszko a lucky victory.

Kotsonaros, a much better wrestler than Jimmy London was at his best, says he will meet Pesek's bone breaking tactics with similar battling.

"I shall ask no quarter. Neither shall I give any."

That's the Greek's pre-battle statement.

No wonder there is such great interest in the bout.

Too bad the affair is not being staged in the Arena.

The Grand Opera House is hardly large enough to accommodate the great crowd that will wish to see this mat classic.

HOPPE'S BRILLIANT PLAY GIVES HIM THE EDGE

By Universal Service.

New York, March 14—William F. Hoppe, the wonder man of billiards, staged a remarkable "comeback" in the second 500-point block of his 1,500 point match with Jake Schaefer at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Hoppe started the play 223 points behind Schaefer, who had finished the first block Monday night with the score at 500 to 277. The champion not only caught up with his opponent and scored 723 points against Schaefer's 494, but he passed young Jake with a superb exhibition at the finish for a count of 1,000 to 994.

Schaefer opened play with the balls in the perfect position he left them at the completion of the first block.

The block necessitated twelve innings. Schafer had an unfinished run of twenty and in his first turn counted nine. Hoppe counted fourteen. He missed a one-cuit bank.

The challenger collected twenty-five on a series of drives for position and failed on a two-cushion bank. Hoppe missed.

Schaefer counted fifty-three and missed a four-cushion shot for position. Hoppe made ten spectacular shots and missed a two-cushion draw. Schaefer counted thirty-seven. He stopped to inspect a ball, then missed a three-inch draw.

Hoppe started the open game with a masse the length of the table. He made a cross-table force draw on his twentieth shot and another on his twenty-second.

Schaefer followed with a brilliant run of eighty, with numerous pretty drives of three or more cushions.

The champion played like a champion on his next turn at the table. By the finest sort of nursing, astraddle the balklines, he counted 60 and continued to 88.

A two-cushion draw failed for Hoppe after he had made two three-cushion shots. Schaefer counted 66, and missed a one-cushion bank off the lower side rail.

Hoppe's mastery then returned to him. He counted 100, drove three cushions for a perfect gather and continued and passed Schaefer's high run of 139 made in the first block and made 143. He missed a two-cushion shot in the corner for position.

Hoppe increased his grand total to 706 with a remarkable run of 161 in his 19th inning of the night's play. He resorted to the most daring shots of the match. His 1054 shot, a long two-cushion bank in the corner, was missed by a hair. He made two cushion bank shots, three one-cushion banks and four difficult masses during the run.

CHAMPION TILDEN PLAYS IN MIXED DOUBLES

By FRED C. LANE.

William Tilden, 2nd, world's single tennis champion and for the past four years the leading star in tennis circles, will make his first appearance in this section since he lost the top of his middle finger of his right hand in the mixed doubles tournament at the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club today.

Mrs. R. E. Cole

In the absence of Mrs. Mallory, "Peerless Bill" will team with a new partner, Miss Brenda Hedstrom, the Buffalo girl who has made such a notable advance in her game since last year.

Boston has always been a favorite city for the champion and is, incidentally, one of the cities where he plays his best. The covered courts at Longwood are considered the finest in the country and have been a favorite spot for Tilden.

Critics assert the loss of the top of his finger has not hurt Bill's game.

Because of a few defeats handed the champion since the operation, Boston's tennis fans will be out in full numbers to judge for themselves as to his playing condition. Miss Hedstrom, who will team with Tilden, did exceptionally well on the courts this week. She was eliminated in both the singles and doubles, but in both cases by opponents who have high ratings.

Four teams have been "seeded" by the committees in the mixed doubles; Tilden and Miss Hedstrom; Dell and Mrs. Wrightman; Guild and Mrs. Godfrey; Wright and Mrs. Cole.

In the sixteen teams that have been selected by the committee will be found present and former Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton tennis stars.

Mrs. F. H. Godfrey

What promises to be a splendid match in the mixed doubles today is that which brings Tilden and his partner into action early in the afternoon against Edward Herndon, former Princeton star, and Miss Elizabeth Bright.

In the play yesterday two new doubles team were brought to light who will make the play interesting for the favorites. The combination of Mrs. J. D. Corbiere and Mrs. William M. Shedden by virtue of their victory over Miss Eleonora Sears and Miss Brenda Hedstrom is considered one of the strongest.

Miss Cornelia Baker and Miss Lillian Scharman make a brilliant team, as was proved in yesterday's play. Their defeat of Mrs. R. Batcheler and Miss Penelope Parkman, one of the best rated combinations in the tournament, was a surprise.

Mrs. Nat W. Niles and her partner, Mrs. T. H. Cabot, crowned an unsatisfactory day for Miss Fenno and Miss Ruth Yerxa in a three-set match. They lost the first set 5—7, but settled down and carried off the next two in masterly fashion, 6—4 and 6—3.

Both singles matches will be continued today and will furnish many bright bits of tennis. The set-to of Mrs. Benjamin Cole, 2d, and Mrs. Nat Niles at 2 o'clock should be interesting.

BOSTON EAGLES ARE ON EDGE FOR GAMES

The Boston Eagles, the name under which the players who carried on an sensationally for Boston College, will play, look ahead to the games at the Arena with Hamilton Tigers and AuraLees with interest.

Canadian players also anticipate these games. Canadian hockey circles were much disturbed over the defeats sustained by McGill and Queen's from Boston College.

AMATEURS READY FOR BOUTS

It is expected that the fight for the title in the 126-pound class at the New England championships, which will be held at Mechanics Building on Friday evening, March 23, will prove the most sensational of the tournament.

Although the entry list in this class is one of the longest on record. It is expected that the finalists will be "Win" Anderson of Brockton and Johnny Andreseano of East Boston.

These two boxers have provided the fireworks in the class all Winter. Thus far Anderson, who is a newcomer, has proved a thorn in the side of the Boston boxer. For this reason Andreseano has been unable to take the measure of the aggressive puncher from Brockton.

Three times has Eastie Boston boy has been vanquished by Anderson, but Andreseano is twining faithfully this time in an effort to break his string. Andreseano is anxious to win the title in this class. The bouts in this division should be the most thrilling of the tournament.

Manager William H. Cuddy is anxious for the boxers to file their entries early. On account of the long list, it is imperative that the boys make early entries. They are also warned that only a half pound is allowed in these championship bouts.

OWEN HAS REST UNTIL APRIL 10

George Owen, Harvard's man of might on the athletic field, is taking a "vacation." It is the first real rest from sports that he has taken since he entered Harvard in the Fall of 1919.

George Owen.

Every year he has gone out for football, hockey and baseball, one after the other, with no surcease between the various sports. He has been continually in action during the Summer at baseball and tennis while at a camp.

George will take it easy now until about April 10, when he will go South with the Harvard nine, of which he is the captain.

FRIEDMAN GETS BETTER AND BETTER

Is Abe Friedman getting better and better, or is Young Mack one of those highly touted boys who always fail to live up to the reputation which precedes them?

That's the question which puzzled the fans who attended the Armory A. A. bouts at the Grand Opera House. For Friedman, displaying his wares against Mack, the boy who was said to have fought and defeated some of our foremost bantam-weights, outpunched the out-of-town boy eight to one.

Only once did Mack show any class. In the eighth round, the Slow town youth did some effective work, and carried the round by a big margin.

Friedman, however, failed to be impressed by this flash in the pan, and he easily took the following two rounds. Abe used his left to great advantage throughout the melee.

K. O. Joe O'Donnell, the boy who was originally billed to meet the New England bantam champ, made his appearance in Young Mack's corner. Joe sported a bandage over his right eye, the result of a cut opened while sparring in the gymnasium. O'Donnell will probably be matched to meet Friedman some time in the near future.

Henry Ford of the North End, made short work of Young Ketchel, a boy who Frankie Britt brought up from New Bedford. Ford punched the Whaler dizzy and forced him to quit in the second round.

The Spike Hennessey-Jimmy Smith set-to was a repitition of their previous engagement. Spike took the honors in the first four rounds and Smith spurted in the last four, and grabbed a close decision. This bout was the best of the evening, as it and the fans continually on edge.

Pat Kelly of South Boston received the decision over Benny Nelson of Lowell in the sight-round curtain raiser. Kelly knocked the Lowell youth down in both the second and fourth rounds.

LYNN KIWANIS CLUB WILL STAGE BOUTS

RECOGNIZE GOOD SERVICE AS WELL AS BAD

Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service Inc.

If you are not given good service in a store you do not hesitate to make a complaint to the man in charge of the department.

But do you ever call his attention to the particularly good service you have received at the hands of one of the clerks?

Why not?

Why do you not praise as well as criticise?

Certainly the ones hired to serve you are employed to do their part in giving you attention and satisfaction but it is too much for you to express to them and to their employers the fact that you are pleased with their service?

A few words from you may bring deserved recognition to a good clerk, for it is only the capable ones who can give good service month after month.

Isn't it true that you save most of your compliments to be given at social functions or to those from whom you hope to receive some benefit?

You say it's enough meeting those who call for you why do you not extend your favorable comments to those who serve?

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

Start Here Today This Engrossing Story of Life and Love from the Master Pen of One of the World's Greatest Novelists

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

Spadoni is interested in the wounded soldiers and their nurses

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Attilo Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Dentille. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system. He refuses, but grows interested in her, and later calls at her home where she tells him she has a son in the war. Michael tries to make love to her but she resists. He goes to the Casino and watches the Duchess win large sums.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez, Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and other Novels of World Renown

THIS Prince seemed to be in doubt as he faced this little man, who had arisen, surprised and suspicious, on seeing that he was talking with so lofty a person.

"You must know me," he said. I am Prince Lublinoff, the owner of the Villa Sirena. I need twenty thousand francs, and not a franc less. If you feel that you are unable—"

He was about to turn his back, but the dwarf humbly restrained him, considering useless on this occasion all the excuses and delays which he usually made his clients endure, like a slow torture. He slipped out between the group of people, begging "High Highness" to wait an instant.

Perhaps he did not have the entire sum with him, and was obliged to ask for aid from the cashier of the Casino; perhaps he was going to secrete himself for a moment in the lavatories, to take bank notes from various hiding places in his clothes, even from his shoes.

Michael felt a discreet hand touch his own, thrusting between his fingers a roll of paper. The old man had returned without him seeing him come, bobbing up between two groups, small and sprightly, like an imp from a trap-door on the stage.

"You know the Colonel? Tomorrow he will interview you about the payment and the interest."

Easy to Borrow

And the Prince turned his back without more words, leaving the usurer satisfied with his discourteous brevity. A great gentleman could not talk in any other way. He liked to have dealings with men of that sort.

Alicia, who had followed the scene from a distance, came forward to meet him, holding out her hands inconspicuously.

"Take it." Michael's right hand thrust the bank notes forward so rudely that the offer was almost a blow.

His shame for what he had just done expressed itself in a confusion of protests.

"Of all the fool things I have ever done."

He left the Casino. He would never come back to it; he swore it!

In the mental twilight when one is half asleep and half awake, Prince Michael, lying on his bed at Villa Sirena, wondered by what strange magic Alicia had been able to persuade him to approach the money lender at the Casino for a loan. Yet, with money he had borrowed that evening Alicia had been able to go on playing recklessly, in the hope of recouping her losses; and she had not risen from trente et quarante until the last of his twenty thousand francs had gone over the table.

Before the Prince finally went to sleep he had formed a plan to conquer Fortune once again for Alicia's sake. "I must help her. I am a man. Tomorrow—tomorrow!"

The following day, at the breakfast hour, the Colonel had a great surprise which worried him considered by Prince Michael, who had never bothered about money, allowing his chamberlain to make negotiations directly with his Paris manager for the house expenses, now asked him what amount he had at his disposal.

The Colonel made a mental calculation. He did not think he had just then more than fifteen thousand francs, but he was expecting a check from the agent.

"Give it to me," Lublinoff commanded.

And immediately, as though just that moment recalling it Michael calmly mentioned the huge debt he had contracted the afternoon before in order that Alicia might go on with her gambling.

The Colonel was thoughtful for a moment on learning that he had to come to an understanding with the old money lender and stranded for the return of twenty thousand francs and the payment of exorbitant interest, which might mean a serious affair.

He resisted the luncheon during which the Prince had proposed their mutual military life. Where was the formidable enemies of women now? For the colonel suspected that behind these squanderings of the Prince and this sudden passion for gambling lay the influence of some woman.

And he, who thinking of snowbound mine entombed in his loyalty, never dared make more than a few cool coins from time to time, was decidedly worried.

While the Colonel was on his way to the bank where the house money was deposited, the Prince walked about in the neighborhood of the Casino, waiting impatiently for the rooms to open. In the morning the crowd was very slight and but few tables were operating.

Secret Scorn.

Only the most desperate gamblers, anxious after a sleepless night to try as soon as possible their new combinations, and sickly people who aimed to find a good seat vacant, came at that early hour.

Impatiently Lublinoff entered the antechamber, after secretly thrusting into a pocket the roll of bills which Tonnie had handed to him. The employes of the first shift were arriving slowly, like clerks reaching an office. The cleaning women and porters in shirtsleeves had just swept up the sawdust scattered on the floor.

They all looked at him out of the corners of their eyes, pointing him out to one another by discreet nudges. Many French faces were at first hear, when people of his station in life were still in bed!

It was 10 o'clock. The gaming rooms opened and Michael entered, brushing against the first gamblers to arrive, modest, timid folk. He felt the same nervousness, impatience and dull anger that he felt on the mornings when he had fought duels. He walked with a heavy step, his hands kept contracting as though ready to strangle the empty air. At the same time he felt the same proud confidence of a marksman, sure of hitting the bulls-eye. He defied luck before facing it—luck that he had conquered. "By God! She will see she is dealing with a man this time!"

He jerked a chair away from a hand already stretched out to take it and sat down at a roulette table between two dirty, badly dressed old women, who looked like witches. The employes exchanged looks of amazement, eyeing one another discreetly. The Prince was betting, and at such an hour!

"Faites vos jeux!"

The game began. Michael had no particular combination, and had not thought of any. His eyes wandered over the thirty-six numbers, but only for an instant.

"That's the one," he thought. And he placed all that he could, nine louis, the maximum, on thirteen.

The ball spun about the mahogany border, and when it finally came to rest was greeted with a murmur of amazement: "Number thirteen!"

Again Learns.

A few thousand-franc notes thrust in his direction by the rake of the croupier consisted in front of the Prince, who sat there impassively, retaining a hard, willful look. He knew it; he was sure he was making no mistake. Thirteen once more.

People looked in amazement. What, lucky again, and with the same number! But when thirteen won a second time and the Prince was paid the maximum again, a murmur from the crowd applauded the victor.

YOUR BEAUTY

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza,

Famous Beauty and Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

"WHAT cold cream shall I use?"

"Is one cream sufficient?"

"Are three distinct cold creams—a cleansing cream, a vanishing cream and a heavy massage cream—advisable?"

"Does every complexion need cold cream?"

These are a few of the questions I have been asked from time to time.

In reply I can only offer you humble suggestions based on what has proved useful in my own experience.

The best cold cream for you depends on your type of skin and your personal preference. And the only way to find out what suits you best is by experimenting.

But in this experimenting it is well to be cautious. Do not be forever trying some cream that is highly perfumed, high-priced and has an attractive name. Keep to preparations you know are pure and good.

A cold cream should first of all be cleansing. And the average cold cream has this quality. Therefore practically any cold cream will be satisfactory as a cleanser, but it must be perfectly pure.

Next, cold cream should always be the foundation for face powder. If powder is used. For this purpose many women prefer a so-called "vanishing" or greaseless cream. Some skins are too dry, however, to benefit by vanishing cream, and here again, experimenting is the best test.

If vanishing cream irritates or roughens your skin, you may find that one simple cold cream will serve for you both as a cleanser and as a foundation for your face powder. It may serve a third purpose also—that of refreshing and feeding your skin.

Some women prefer to keep on hand three distinct creams—a powder foundation or vanishing cream, a moderately greasy cleansing cream and a very heavy, rich massage cream.

Whatever cream you use should be first gently patted into the skin with your finger-tips, then gently massaged in with a circular and upward, outward movement. If your skin does not readily absorb the cream, use it very sparingly or not at all, for this shows that your complexion is not calling out for cream at that particular time. This test will also show you whether you are one of the few women whose complexions do not require cold cream.

Personally, I find that one simple, pure cold cream meets all my skin needs.

If you like to make your own toilet preparations, here is a recipe which you will find practical. It makes a cold cream good for general use:

Rosewater	500 grams
Oil of sweet almonds	500 grams
White beeswax	20 grams
Spermaceti	20 grams
Oil of rose	2 grams

Be sure that all these materials are pure. To make the cream, place the beeswax and spermaceti in a double boiler. Do not place this boiler on to heat, but partly fill it with very hot water and let the inner pan stand in the water until the beeswax and spermaceti gradually heat and blend. Next, stir the oil of sweet almonds in slowly, then drop the rosewater little by little into the mixture and stir again.

When all these ingredients are thoroughly mixed, pour the cream into a stone jar or a china vessel. When it has cooled—not before—add the drops of oil of rose and cover the jar. This cream should last many months.

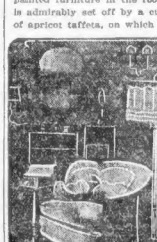
FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

THE popularity of damask upholstered easy chairs for bedrooms is due to two reasons—they are comfortable and can be obtained in shades which will harmonize with almost any color scheme the home-maker devises.

The chair in the illustration is a greenish-gray color to match the painted furniture in the room. It is admirably set off by a cushion of apricot taffeta, on which is appliqued a basket of satin flowers in yellow, lavender and blue.



A Cozy Bedroom Setting

The base of the lamp is painted to match the furniture and the shade is of apricot taffeta lined with rose georgette. The shade is trimmed in an unusual fashion, the ubiquitous flowers having been supplanted by satin apples, grapes and leaves in their natural colors, which form a border about the top while ball fringe trims the bottom.

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

By Ann Adams

Dear Miss Adams:

"A" says that a girl should write to a young man first. "B" says the young man should write to the girl first. Which is correct?

J. L. R.

As a rule it is the one who has gone away who writes first. It is good form for a young lady who has gone away to write a short, rather formal note to a gentleman, the degree of formality, of course, depending upon the friendship. If he has left the city she should by all means wait until he has written to her.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

By Blanche Silver

David and the Mighty Whale.

"OH, shoot!" David pouted as his mother called him into the house to put on his overcoat. I can't see why they have to make the crazy things so heavy!"

"What's that you're saying is crazy?" asked a merry voice, and Squeedee, the tiny elfin from Joyland, popped up the fence and nodded his pretty little red cap.

"Why, I have to go in the house and put that old coat on," replied David. "And it's so heavy I can't play in it."

"What! That little brown coat with the fur collar? My goodness! I have a little—no, I'll say big friend instead. You might complain if you had to wear a coat like his."

"Jiminy, I suppose," laughed David. He always enjoyed having "sprees"—as he called it—with the tiny elfin. "If that is where you're going, I'll have to put on my overcoat."

"There's where you've missed your guess," laughed Squeedee. "We're going out to the museum. The fellow I refer to was caught and mailed on the ice there. Before David could say a word he found himself standing beside the mighty whale.

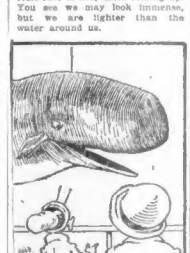
"Well, well, if isn't my old friend, Squeedee. Who's your friend?"

"David," replied the elfin. David looked rather startled, but bowed very politely. "I told him about your heavy coat."

"So," laughed Mr. Whale drowsily. "Well, how do you think you'd like to carry around a coat two feet thickness and weighing thirty pounds? No?" when David shook his head. "Well, that's what I had to do before those fellows caught me. It wasn't two feet thick all over. But the funny thing about us whales is, we can squeeze ourselves all over and make ourselves quite a wee bit smaller."

"The very idea," David laughed. "And I suppose you have a hard time getting to the surface of the water. You're so very heavy."

"No indeed," replied Mr. Whale. "Instead, we find it very hard to keep ourselves down. And when I do stay under water very long I have to keep swimming at a terrible rate to keep from coming up. You see we may look immense, but we are lighter than the water around us.



"Don't Misunderstand Me"

"Thank you, Squeedee," said David, shaking the tiny elfin's hand, "I guess you're right about the coat."

And bidding him goodby, David ran into the house and quickly put on his overcoat.

Another fine story tomorrow.

HAVE YOU BAD SKIN

People Notice It. Clear It Up with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky If You Don't WORRY

THE influences of today do not culminate until noon time, and for the balance of the day conditions are largely what you make them. In the evening you must make every effort to overcome tendencies of depression and worry.

This is one of those days when you will feel morbid and dissatisfied, not only with your lot but also with those who surround you. Unless you make a strong effort to conquer these feelings you will become very unhappy, and create an atmosphere all around you of discontent and gruntled feelings.

Remember that "there is a silver lining to every cloud" and that a tomorrow comes after today. What appears so disheartening right now, what is so discouraging at the present moment, will pass with time, and after you have had the opportunity to buckle down and remove those things which have caused your present discontented frame of mind. In a few days from now, when these temporary troubles have passed, you will be wondering why you ever allowed them to disturb your peace of mind!

DEFENSE OF HEALTH

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

TOO many people make the mistake of dodging and disturbing the doctor. At the same time their ears are willingly and widely opened to the suggestions of uncalled-for advice. The fear of ailments between us and death. That is the nightmare that is what he is always trying to escape. It keeps the faith has been shown over and over again by the self-sacrifice of devotion on the firing line of science and amidst the perils of hospitals and pest houses.

No science is now advancing faster than that of medicine in its broadest sense. But evidently it does not go fast enough to satisfy some of its leaders. An instance is shown in Professor A. B. Macallum's address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on "The Urgency of Research on the Great Portal to Disease in the Body."

The learned naturally asks: "What is the great portal to disease of the body? Is it a door that we can help to keep closed against the entrance of the enemy?"

It is a door, and a very wide one, and though it is placed beyond your direct reach, perhaps you can help to keep it closed, and well guarded, and thus save some of the doctor's fees.

The great portal to disease, according to Professor Macallum, is the "mucosa," or the epithelial membrane enclosing the intestines. This membrane, he says, "has functions which make it unique, functions which are not performed by any other organ. It is the absorbent of practically all that goes to nourish the body, a rôle it plays from the first to the last of activities assigned to no other class of cells.

"It controls also the passage through it of the ordinary bacteria of the intestinal cavity and of their products, toxic and otherwise, and therefore may be regarded as the first line of defense of the body, at its most vulnerable point."

Now, says Professor Macallum, in effect, the defending wall along which the danger is greatest, is not the outside skin of the body, nor the more popularly familiar mucous membranes, but it is the wall of epithelial cells surrounding the intestines. There is the citadel that offers the greatest portal to disease.

"If this portal could be kept always closed, old age might be indefinitely delayed and a bodily vigor maintained for a much longer period than it is now."

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough syrup. It tastes good, and is a little of its low cost, can be depended upon to give prompt and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough instantly. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle, and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes, with ease and promptness that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BALTIMORE WOMAN'S MESSAGE TO MOTHERS ABOUT DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

At 820 W. Hayward Ave. lives Mrs. Henry Johnson, who a few weeks ago wrote what may be termed a good message to all mothers. She said: "I have used Dr. True's Elixir for more than ten years and know it is good." She used Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, to rid her children of worms. Those is handily a child but what needs Dr. True's Elixir, for they all usually have worms when growing up. Mrs. Johnson appreciates what Dr. True's Elixir accomplishes. Your children will be in better health through its use.

Symptoms to watch: Constipation, offensive breath, slow fever, biliousness, pains in stomach, red points on tongue, swollen upper lip, starting during sleep with troublesome dreams. 30c—60c—$1.20, and 80c.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Is America becoming a nation of investors? Or are we a nation of speculators?

The outward evidences would indicate that investment is developing more notably than speculation.

First, of course, came into being the army of some fifteen million subscribers for Liberty bonds. This represented investment rather than speculation.

* * *

Public utility corporations have recruited some two million stockholders, more than half of them within the last few years. This, too, represents investment, not speculation.

The growth in the number of stockholders in industrial companies has also been very notable during recent years.

The number of buyers of bonds of railroad, industrial and other enterprises has also increased.

And this has represented investment rather than speculation.

The distribution of first mortgages in small pieces has broadened enormously within the last few years. I talked the other day with an executive of one organization that is distributing in Brooklyn alone one million dollars of mortgages every week of the year in amounts averaging $2,000.

This, of course, represents investment.

Yet—well, just how rife is speculation?

Perhaps you may have noticed that stock market experts are telling us almost daily that the public are not in the stock market but greatly interested.

"The day's trading was almost entirely professional."

"Leaders of pools are responsible for most of the market activity."

* * *

Then the storms interfered with telegraphic communication between Western places and Wall Street.

And what happened?

Read these two extracts from newspaper reports of Monday's stock market:

"Had not the West been cut off from the stock market for practically two-thirds of the session, Wall street would undoubtedly have witnessed another buoyant stock market. The interruption to wire service resulted in a contraction in the total volume of business to the smallest for any full session in weeks. The West has been a dominating factor on the constructive side of this market and its absence greatly reduced the trading power heretofore under the general list."

"The slowing up of business on account of the Western wire trouble was accepted by room observers as irrefutable evidence of the extent to which public buying has affected the stock market during the past few weeks."

* * *

These two extracts would indicate, would they not, that the active buyers and sellers of stocks are not confined to the neighborhood of Wall Street?

Motors and Accessories Set New Highs in Strong New York Stock Market

SUGARS AGAIN AT NEW TOPS FOR YEAR

Motors and accessories were leaders, setting new highs in a strong New York market, with money reviving at 5½ per cent. Cuba Cane preferred and Punta Alegre Sugar ret fresh 1925 tops, and Manati Sugar hit its previous high.

More than a score of issues were at their best prices since January 1. There was a slight reactionary tone in the final hour, with a dulling of activity.

Studebaker, White, Mack Truck and Chandler all made new 1923 highs. Over 30 industrials and specialties sold from 2 to more than 8 points above Tuesday's close. Steel act was up over 4 points and Chile Copper, International, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies gained substantially.

New York Central dropped over a point on the announcement that directors had deferred dividend action until the next meeting, but its heavy lease was without effect on the bulletin of the Interstate Com. Com. New Haven and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico rising 1 to 1½ points.

Bond prices were firmer, early dealings with marked strength again being shown by the sugar company liens. U. S. Government securities continued inactive, the issue of income tax selling, losses of 2 to 6 cents on $100 being registered by all the active issues except the Victory 4¼s, which advanced 2 cents.

Wall St. Gossip

NEW York Central directors decided to retain action on dividend due May 1 until a full meeting of board could be held.

CENTRAL Coal & Coke Co. has resumed regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on common and regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable April 30 to stock of record March 31. Common dividend was passed September 27, 1922.

MACK Trucks reports for 1922 (including one week of receivership) a profit after preferred dividends to $9.62 a share on 283,108 shares of no par common, against $1.16 a share on 300,000 shares ($100 par) first preferred stock in 1921.

PLANTS of Willys-Overland Company will have built 50,000 cars by early April, approximately 30 per cent. of total built in 1922. On February 23 the Toledo plant shipped 1,449 cars, a new record.

STANDARD Oil of California directors have authorized sale of additional unissued stock in their treasury at $25 a share to stockholders of record March 26. Subscription rights expire April 25.

ERIE is expected to sell $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 equipment trust certificates.

DECISION in legal controversy between preferred and common stockholders of Pierce Oil Co will be handed down in June. Argument before Supreme Court of Appeals completed March 13.

STOCK Exchange list has grown so rapidly that few new dealers today can boast of knowing every abbreviation.

REYNOLDS Spring is expected shortly to go on $2 dividend basis.

"DEAL" is reported under way in Western Union, despite repeated denials by management. January earnings increase accounts in part for strength in stock.

THREE hundred and fifty new freight cars have been completed in Atlantic Coast Line shops in Brunswick, Ga., and an order is now in hands of shop officials for 500 additional.

SHIPBUILDING, dry dock and repair plant, involving an investment of $250,000, will be established in New Orleans within a few months by the Todd Shipyards Corporation of New York.

WARREN BROS. ISSUES LEAD IN BOSTON

Warren Bros. issues were leaders on the Boston Stock Exchange. All three were at new 1923 highs. The common, bought on expectation it will shortly go on dividend basis, was up over 2 points, as were also the preferred stocks.

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway was up 2 at 29, the preferred a point at 70, the 1st 2 at 61, adjustments 2 at 48 and the trust certificates a point at 41½, extending their gains of Tuesday.

Waltham Watch added 1¼, at 7; the preferred 1¾, at 22, and prior preferred when issued 3¼, at 75.

Abnaeki and Punta Alegre Sugar added a point each. Boston & Maine Class B yielded 2, at 40. Quincy took on better than a point, And United Fruit advanced 2.

There were fractional gains in Greenfield Tap & Die, Boston Elevated, Calumet & Arizona, Isle Royale, Inland Creek Coal, Massachusetts Gas, New Haven, New Cornelia, Waldorf and Anaconda.

Boston Notes

SHATTUCK Arizona Copper Co, for 1922 reports net loss of $23,324 after expenses, tax and depreciation, against $33,862 in 1921.

CENTENNIAL Copper Mining Co. for 1922 reports loss of $52,693 against 1921 loss of $50,645. No copper was produced in 1922.

RECEIVERS of Tilton Mills, Tilton, N. H., have sold property to the American Woolen Co. This is 100-loom mill, idle for some time.

STONE & Webster have been awarded a contract to build $10,000,000 manufacturing plant of Henry Ford on Mississippi between St. Paul and Minneapolis.

INTERNATIONAL Shoe has been well bought in Boston since listing on big board. Company is planning further expansion, including two new factories, one at Plora, Ill.

ARIZONA Commercial Mining Co. in January earned net profits before taxes of $5,000; last month, although final figures are not all in, will show net profits of approximately $75,000.

JANUARY production of shoes in the United States was approximately 20,000,000 pairs, of which Endicott Johnson and International Shoe would account for nearly 22 per cent.

CURRENT shoe production is biggest on record. Merchandising companies of United States are also doing well and textile companies are in black ink again.

UP TO March the four mills of the Punta Alegre Sugar Co. had produced a total of 276,278 bags of sugar, a highly favorable showing.

W. M. WOOD of American Woolen says: "It is the intention of Consolidated Textile to develop a scheme of fabrication of cotton cloths that will NOT conflict with the operations of the company's Southern mills."

COPPER Range experienced a small net loss in man power in February, but production was well maintained. Refined output is not expected to fall below 2,000,000 pounds per month during rest of year.

AT THE Mayflower crosscut on 1400-foot level is still in the lobe, which is usually wide at the point of contact. Mineralization is irregular or bunchy but on the whole encouraging.

AS A further preparator step toward production, Seneca plans to open drawlines of Ojibway Copper Co. at Ojibway and repair them for employes of Seneca and Gratiot.

MOHAWK Mining Co. will pay trammers $4 per shift, minimum, with additional bonus for extra cars trammed; engineers company account, $4.50 per shift; and miners in drifts, on contact, $4.50, minimum.

DANGEROUS FUMES

I have for years repeatedly warned the public against the use of poisonous gas fumes and dangerous poisons used for the purpose of exterminating household pests. The following deluded story from a recent issue of a daily newspaper shows the danger incurred from using poisonous fumes.

(Dispatch from Chicago)

An entire family of six was found dead today, killed by the odor of an acid used as a disinfectant by the proprietor of a restaurant under their apartment. The bodies were discovered by William Powers, a member of the State Legislature, who noticed that Mrs. Powers left the window open last night and was the only person in the apartment to escape the deadly fumes.

Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician, who examined the bodies, said the gas would spread within four feet of the floor, and that in this restaurant last night he warned the occupants of the apartment to keep their windows open.

Poisonous fumes should never be used except under the direction of the Board of Health, and then only by experts in their line.

In all my work of exterminating household pests, I use fumes only when beneficial and lasting results are established by the use of Stuart's Powder. This can be handled easily with safety. The way I prepare it, fold into loose sheet, so it burns and specify the kind packed in my sealed tins. Sold by all druggists and department stores for 50c and $1.20; also, for cats, $1.40 by mail. Send money order, cash or check with measurement of room. Mailed in plain wrapper.

Public Safety Requires New Basis of Coal Control

Here are portraits of five representative men engaged in the transportation of anthracite coal.

E. J. Pearson
President N. Y., N. H. & H. R.R.

These four presidents and one manager of coal-carrying railroads will deny that they are directly interested in mining coal.

They will deny that they are responsible for the enforced sale to desperate householders of "fireproof" refuse at inordinate profits, involving the cheating of former mine labor as well as present-day consumers.

The presidents of the coal-carrying railroads will plead as their alibi the legal separation which the Federal government has enforced between coal-mining and coal-transporting corporations.

But the facts speak for themselves and carry their own assignment of moral, if not legal, responsibility.

It is known to all that, while the delimitation between the large coal-mining and the chief coal-carrying corporations in the anthracite districts has been accomplished in compliance with the law, the underlying kinship of investors remains undisturbed.

James H. Hustis
President N. & H. R.R.

Only in a technical sense are the anthracite-carrying railway executives no longer Coal Barons, so-called, as in the old days of the Temple Iron Company, when they stood all for one and one for all.

They and the executives of the divorced mining corporations still serve identical interests.

So that this revealed conspiracy to take advantage of a public crisis to force upon the market practically worthless fuel at enormous profit when there was at the mines an abundance of good fuel, throws its odium not simply upon the mining corporations directly and explicitly implicated, but upon the whole interlocking system of private monopoly coal control.

Howard M. Biscoe
Vice-President N. Y. C., in Charge of N. & H. R.R.

Each of the coal-carrying corporations whose executives are pictured herewith refused, during the strike of railway shopmen, to come to terms of settlement.

The consequence was deteriorated motive power, which limited hauling capacity when the public's need of fuel was greatest.

Had this motive power been up to normal, the supply of good coal deliverable at centres of need would doubtless have been sufficient to give no opportunity for the sale at outrageous margins of so-called "bootlegger" coal and "fireproof" coal either by irresponsible independent or unscrupulous regular shippers.

The public cannot rightly blame the railway executives for refusing to censor the coal they hauled, for as carriers they must take cargo as it comes.

L. F. Loree
President D. & H. R.R.
(Copyright by Bachrach)

But the public can and does blame them for letting their motive power become so depleted as to compel consumers to supplement the limited shipments of good coal with atrocious substitutes.

Edward E. Loomis
President Lehigh Valley R.R.

It can and does blame them for bringing about a condition in which the profit in the enforced sale of worthless fuel presented overwhelming temptation to greed and imposition.

And it should, for its future protection, demand a new basis of control of the nation's household fuel, which will put it beyond the power of a few men to exploit human necessity so outrageously — even though that new basis be outright public ownership of mines and railroads.

Good Advice From Hoover

A Job for the Farm Bloc

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Secretary Hoover gives this government good advice, which is to watch foreign monopolies that have power to tax the people of the United States.

Rubber and nitrates are controlled in other countries and their prices are controlled. We buy five hundred thousand pounds of rubber from the foreign monopoly every year. If the price were increased ten cents a pound it would mean a tax on the people of the United States of fifty million dollars a year, and so with nitrates.

Perhaps the government will make up its mind eventually to do something about production of nitrates by water-power.

The farm bloc ought to be able to push that through, at least.

Do We Get Them?

England and France are much amused by attempts of the United States to collect two hundred and fifty million dollars that this country spent keeping soldiers on German territory, where they had no business, after the war.

France and England say to the United States, "If you want that money from Germany, go in and collect it yourself. You won't get it out of our reparations fund."

They intimate that France has shown us how to get money from Germany, if we are interested, the method being, GO AND GET IT.

EAGER TO BE TRAINED NURSE

By Lucy Lowell

HERE'S a letter, a brave and strange missive. Read it:

"Dear Miss Lowell—I am a girl of twenty and all my life my one and only ambition has been to be a nurse, to help relieve the sick and helpless and make life seem worth living to them. This has been my hope, my cherished ambition.

"But I am only a grammar school graduate, and I have been working since I was thirteen.

"Today, at twenty, I do all the personal work of the president of the company. My salary is fairly good, considering the amount of schooling I received. But what I want most to say is that I always have been striving to be free from debt and get just the few things necessary to every girl's wardrobe, that I may start out on my chosen profession. But something always turns up.

"My folks are very poor and it is hoping them out that has left me without a bank account.

"Don't there someone who would give me a start on my chosen profession by helping just a little financially? Fifty dollars would do it. I promise that I would pay it back in small amounts while I am training.

"LOUISE"

Have you thought of trying for some evening work to make up the fifty dollars you need?

Or, why don't you go to the president of your company, who has known you and respected you and reaped the benefit of your diligence through six years, and tell him exactly what you have written to me?

Above all, don't stop having the "unsatisfied feeling." It is that very feeling from which springs success.

Airmen Adopt Distress Call

LONDON, March 14—Airmen now have their own "S. O. S." call.

At a meeting in London of representatives of the leading European aircraft manufacturing countries it was decided that the words "May Day" should be the international aircraft distress call.

"May Day" was selected as being the nearest equivalent of "M'aidez," the French for "help me."

The universal distress call, "S. O. S.," was ruled out owing to the sound "S" being difficult to hear by wireless telephone.

Little Eugene Made Happy

Editor Boston American:

As a result of an editorial you printed about little Eugene Jourdes, a two-and-a-half-year-old youngster, who is a patient at the Middlesex General Hospital at New Brunswick, N. J., a victim of an automobile accident, I have received both money and toys for the little boy. Most of the letters have been anonymous and I wonder whether you would be good enough to allow me to express my gratitude to these friends through the medium of your columns. Little Eugene has been made very happy and I am sure he joins me in thanking these good many friends who are anxious to do something for the youngster who may never walk again as the result of a drunken joy ride.

House Orchestra Played

Editor Boston American:

Under date of February 26th, the various Boston newspapers in publishing accounts of the fire at the Gordon's Central Square Theatre of Cambridge, Mass., February 25th, erroneously stated that the Paul Whiteman Orchestra played snappy jazz music until all of the patrons were out of the theatre. The actual facts of the case, however, were that the fire was reported during the first number played by the Paul Whiteman Orchestra and the curtain was rung down as they were starting their second number and the local house orchestra at once started playing and played until the last person had left the theatre. Child's Coat Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a child's coat and several other things that Mrs. G. N. may have. I also have six waists and a few bungalow aprons, all size 38, that some one may have. You are doing splendid work for the poor. SPRINGFIELD.

ED. NOTE—Pardon us—YOU are, Mrs. G. N.'s address, and the address of Miss S. F., who also lives in Springfield and who needs such clothes, will be sent you.

Will Send Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

I saw Mrs. L. S.'s letters, and, as I have a little girl ten years old, I think I can keep at least one of her girls pretty well supplied with every-day clothes. I can send her four or five bloomer dresses and flannel petticoats now and more a little later.

MRS. A. P. B.

ED. NOTE—Fine. Her address will be sent you.

D. C. to Get Rug

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of D. C., who asked for a rug. I have one to give, although a little faded, will probably answer the purpose. With very best wishes for the success of the Helping Hand. E. D.

ED. NOTE — Thank you for both the wishes and the offer. D. C.'s address will be sent you.

For Married Man

Editor Helping Hand:

I have, for a married man, out of work, and living with his family, one new shirt, size 15, one new necktie, two soft collars, size 16, two cuff buttons, collar buttons and socks. SAILOR.

ED. NOTE—Your directions will be followed. Thank you.

Toys for Invalid Tots

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you give me the addresses of three little children under nine years old, whose parents are too poor to buy candy and toys for them? Also of three old ladies that like to read and are too poor to buy reading matter. I am not well off, but perhaps I can help a little heart grow glad and put a ray of sunshine in somebody's life. I have two little girls that would like to give toys to some other little girl. MRS. L. A. G.

ED. NOTE — The names of three little girls who must lie on a cot in a hospital day after day, and who have no toys to play with, will be sent you. Thank you.

Offers Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will kindly send me the address of M. M. M., who requested fancy-work magazines, I will gladly send her some. Also the address of Mrs. F. R., the young mother with a sick husband, who wanted a coat, size 34 or 36.

MRS. F. A. R.

ED. NOTE—They will be sent you. Thank you.

Paris Prices Up 40 Per Cent.

PARIS, March 14.—Americans who expect to come to Paris for the season and benefit by the low franc exchange, will be sadly disillusioned, judging from the upward leaps of all prices since the franc commenced to tumble.

Many merchants, fearing a dollar worth twenty francs as a result of the repudiation by Germany of the Treaty of Versailles, have set their prices at much more than the present exchange would warrant.

The present scale of prices here would not be justified in most cases were the francs to be twenty-five to the dollar.

A correspondent of Universal Service set out on a tour of inspection and found that in many shops, especially those frequented by Americans, prices had jumped as much as 40 per cent within a week, whereas the dollar had ascended only 16 per cent.

THEY GAVE HIM A MEDAL; WHAT MORE CAN HE ASK?

By Herbert Kaufman

IF Michael Donaldson had stuck to his work in a Haverstraw brickyard he'd hardly have such fanciful notions nowadays.

But he would go galivanting abroad. Now Michael complains of his nerves and keeps drifting from job to job.

Noise and excitement upset him. He can't seem to concentrate. Some folks have queer ideas about themselves; perhaps you'd like to know where Donaldson got his.

There was a battle in France and six of our wounded men lay on a hilltop exposed to the drumming fire of the enemy. Rifle, machine gun and cannon sprayed the crest on which they crawled and moaned.

Donaldson went up and got them. One at a time—six separate rendezvous with death—six shuddering trips to hell and back.

And strange to say, ever since then he hasn't been feeling quite right—or doing very well.

A French general pinned a bunch of decorations on his tunic; the War Department announces he is to receive the congressional medal, the rarest distinction this nation confers upon its citizens.

When Donaldson got the notification he had eleven cents and a pay-up-or-get-out letter from his hotel.

They'll hold a parade next week at Governor's Island and tell him what a great man he is. The drums will beat, the crowds will cheer and everybody boast of "our heroic defenders."

His worries are over—the future's provided for. He can eat the medal.

The Lion Breaks Loose as Usual

The lion end of March is off on its usual rampage. Blizzards, storms and cyclones are raising hob all over the continent.

You'll notice, however, that the news keeps coming through. Radio, the telegraph company's new lineman, is repairing broken wires with pieces of air.

Twenty deaths reported in Tennessee. The mortality and damage list promises to be a very sorry score—until we pause to compare the probable destruction with ten minutes' work of the flu germ or a half hour's nibbling by grain rusts and plant vermin.

Dialecticians used to argue how many angels could stand on the point of a needle. The question is still undecided.

We sadly know, though, how many million demons can crowd there. Satan's imps have quit cloven-hoof and forked-tail roles—the outfit was too conspicuous.

They are now the microscopic porters for plagues and weevils. Supreme devilitry in that.

Mississippi Flood Prevention at Hand

We lost four billion dollars' worth of agricultural products last year, chiefly through preventable blights. Twenty-five per cent. of that sum annually spent on sprays and fumigators would save the other seventy-five. Rural districts won't need so much government help when they learn to help themselves.

Plantations along the Mississippi Valley needn't worry many more years about the flood waters in the North. Common sense and aviation have united to check them at the source.

Army planes are demonstrating the system at Port Jervis, New York. A few hundred dollars' worth of TNT smashing the ice jam there will forestall a later million-dollar overflow of the Delaware.

Heads win.

Rose Pastor Stokes: Ingrate and Anarchist

But hot heads don't. William Z. Foster, political dope peddlar, self-confessed anarchist and general dealer in mental poisons, is on trial at St. Joseph, Mich., for promoting the doctrine of "political reform through crime, sabotage and other unlawful methods." The quoted phrase is from his acknowledged creed.

Rose Pastor Stokes stands indicted with him.

Mrs. Stokes was born in a notorious pogrom district of Russia. As a child she lived in terror and ignorance.

Unprejudiced American schools rescued her from a cigarmaker's bench in Cleveland. Education opened the way to journalism; a respected young millionaire married her.

She found and realized in the United States every opportunity the Old World denied her kin and kind. And expresses her gratitude by ceaseless efforts to undermine and destroy the system of government through which she has probably benefited more than any citizen of this republic.

The proverbial beggar on horseback.

They're a Long Way From Peru

More beggars on horseback. Twenty thousand lingerie hands, learning that ancient Peruvians did their work to the beat of drum and the tune of flute, threaten a walkout if they, too, aren't provided with music. Airy cadences seem necessary to frow-frow production.

Not a bad idea—if the program consists of the "Star Spangled Banner," "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and "Hail Columbia," interspersed with readings from the Constitution and an unbiased history of the United States.

Mr. Gompers in a recent article protested that the gap between the unions and the employers will continue to widen until arbitrary demands and reactionary impositions cease.

Labor fully understands the meaning of strikes and their cost to wage-earners, also the greater cost of not striking.

He didn't mention the Peruvians.

Poincare and Theunis Discuss New Terms

Word from Essen, by way of Berlin, indicates the killing of ten civilians by French soldiers. The Lord Mayor of Buer is held as hostage. If more Poilus are shot in any part of occupied territory reprisal will be taken upon him and officials of other towns.

A bad situation for Paris, Brussels and Berlin alike. War and revolution will not suit present continental plans. European peoples want peace. Frontier breaking is a profitless venture today. Further calls to arms are nothing but signals to the tax collector.

Poincare and Theunis discuss new reparations terms at Brussels. Like the man who caught the wild cat, they're not looking for help to hold the Ruhr, but are probably hoping that someone will come along and help let the nuisance go.
